

State Ravaged By Tornadoes, Wind

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Violent thunderstorms accompanied by tornadoes rumbled across Ohio Thursday night, ripping off roofs, uprooting trees and causing heavy property damage in at least two areas.

Damage was estimated to total $1 million at both Fremont in Sandusky County and the village of Junction in northeastern Paulding County.

In Fremont, numerous windows were blown out of homes and businesses, fallen trees smashed cars and blocked streets, and electric and telephone lines were knocked down.

At Junction, where the sheriff's department confirmed a tornado had touched down, 27 homes in two subdivisions were damaged extensively.

Only one serious injury was reported, although 17 persons were treated and released at Fremont Memorial Hospital and 11 persons were treated for minor injuries suffered in the Junction twister.

Twelve-year-old John Mendoza Jr. of Fremont was in intensive care at a Fremont hospital with injuries he received when the car in which he was a passenger was showered with bricks and debris from the Penney's department store. The store was heavily damaged by wind.

No serious injuries were reported in either area, although 20 persons were treated and released at Fremont Memorial Hospital and 11 persons were treated for minor injuries suffered in the Junction twister.

A small contingent of Air National Guard troops who were on summer duty at Camp Perry was sent to Fremont to help protect against looting, and Mayor Richard Maier requested Gov. James A. Rhodes to order more guardsmen in to assist in cleanup operations.

High winds blew off the roof of the Sandusky County Home on the outskirts of Fremont and its 120 residents had to be evacuated to Memorial Hospital and area nursing homes.

Witnesses reported seeing a funnel cloud pass over downtown Fremont about 30 feet above the ground.

A large section of the Sandusky County Courthouse was blown into Flag Memorial Park across Park Avenue and the historic First Presbyterian Church, oldest and tallest building in Fremont, lost about half of its 100-foot steeple, officials said.

Other buildings damaged in the city of 18,000 included the library, junior high school and downtown businesses.

"The town looks raked," said Douglas L. Abbott, 21, a resident of near-downtown. "It looks like someone dumped trees on the city. There looks to be more on the ground tonight than there were standing yesterday."

Police Lt. Lynn Goebel said he was sitting in his cruiser at State and Front streets when he saw a funnel cloud coming down Front Street.

"The cruiser was lifted about four feet off the ground and slammed back down on its wheels," Goebel said. "A mannequin was sucked out of the Penney's window and flew against the windshield. I thought it was a pedestrian, at first," he said.

Police said the storm swept northeast through the city. A tornado reportedly touched down southeast of nearby Clyde, destroying a silo.

At one time Thursday night, the entire state was under a tornado watch and the National Weather Service had posted tornado warnings for dozens of counties.

The most severe weather activity was concentrated in the northern half of the state, where there were numerous reports of power outages, downed trees and flooded streets.

High winds caused damage to two sections of the Cedar Point amusement park at Sandusky but officials said there were no serious injuries.

Don Dittman, vice president for marketing, said a station for a narrow gauge railroad was flattened by a fallen tree in the Frontier Town section of the park and some trailers were damaged in the camper village for recreational vehicles.

Dittman said some persons received lacerations from flying objects and one reportedly suffered a broken arm.

A brick wall was blown down at a shopping mall in Sandusky and a house and tavern were unroofed at Wellington in southern Lorain County.

Funnel cloud sightings were reported in Erie, Huron, Seneca and Lorain counties.

Numerous sightings of funnel clouds were reported in southwestern Ohio with only one possible touchdown.

The Carlisle City Hall, in Warren County, lost its roof. Debris also knocked down a utility pole outside causing a power outage for the whole town.

"The council meeting just broke up before it hit," said Sgt. Robert Pell, "It would have shook 'em up pretty good if they were still here." However, Pell said it was not known whether the damage was caused by a tornado or a high wind.

The Preble County Sheriff's department reported three funnel clouds but none touched down. There was wind damage in the New Paris area, the dispatcher said.

There were at least three unconfirmed sightings in the Cincinnati area but no touchdowns.

A barge broke loose on the Ohio River during the storm and damaged three pleasure boats at a marina on the Ohio side, then continued on downstream. Tugs were dispatched to retrieve it, police said.

Tornadoes and thunderstorms across the Midwest have caused some damage and at least one person has been killed.

Audrey Lightsey, 45, of Hodgenville, Ky., was killed Thursday evening when a tornado overturned her mobile home.

Tornadoes were recorded in six states. Illinois had seven, Indiana six, Ohio five, and Kentucky three.

Wisconsin and Missouri each had one. Elsewhere, slow-moving thunderstorms caused heavy rainfall in southeastern Missouri, extreme southern Illinois and the western tip of Kentucky.

Heavy thunderstorms ranged in a band from the lower Great Lakes, down the Ohio valley, across northern Arkansas and southern Missouri and across eastern Oklahoma. Showers and isolated thunderstorms ranged across northern California and Nevada as well as southwestern Texas, the Gulf coast from Louisiana through Florida, New England and the western Great Lakes.

The western half of the nation was mostly clear to partly cloudy while the eastern was mostly cloudy.

Temperatures around the nation at 3 a.m. EDT ranged from 48 at Gillette, Wyo., to 100 at Needles, Calif.

State Budget Wins Approval

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's fiscal year began today with a budget of nearly $13 billion approved by Gov. James A. Rhodes for operation of state government over the next two years. Rhodes line-item vetoed $1.1 million in spending for public employee collective bargaining procedures.

The governor's light touch contrasted sharply with the situation two years ago, when he line-item vetoed 72 sections of a budget drafted to meet priorities of majority Democrats in the General Assembly.

Rhodes noted the 1977-79 budget, written by many of those same Democrats, also "reflects differences in priorities" from his own executive budget proposal.

But he added: "The General Assembly is to be commended for its efforts in developing a budget for the next biennium that provides a continuation and expansion of state services within the resources available to us."

Education and Welfare account for about 75 per cent of the general appropriation, which calls for an overall increase of 18 per cent in state spending.

The governor mixed mild praise with criticism of dollar amounts in several areas.

"The budget you have sent me for approval underfunds our state colleges and universities and will probably result in tuition increases for at least some of the 340,000 students and their families this fall," he said.

Democrats gave higher education $1.27 billion, a 14.4 per cent increase over current spending, but trimmed $30 million from the amount proposed by Rhodes.

The governor also claimed inadequate amounts were included for Medicaid, the state prison system and the Ohio Youth Commission.

In rejecting the funding of two boards intended to implement collective bargaining for state, county and municipal workers, Rhodes said the legislature's limited right-to-strike bill was still pending and should be considered in its entirety.

In a third line-item veto, Rhodes barred a plan to force the Department of Natural Resources to gain state Controlling Board approval of its 1977-79 spending plan. Democrats on the board, a legislative vehicle, have been in continuous political conflict with the natural resources agency.

"This is a highly irregular procedure which has no other apparent purpose than to cause the department unnecessary delay and uncertainty in

High Winds Blast Through County

High winds from Thursday night's storm leveled three buildings and caused minor injuries to at least three people.

The destructive winds appeared to be concentrated in the southern part of Pickaway County and were reported at the height of severe thunderstorms which roared through central and southern Ohio counties until about 11 p.m.

While officials are hesitant to attribute the damage to tornadoes because of an absence of funnel cloud sightings, tornado-like damage was found in the wake of the storm.

"There was a hollow roar from the wind" during a rain stoppage, according to Mrs. Charles Hoover, 6535 Putnam Drive.

During the interval, a 10-foot square metal shed owned by the Hoovers was blasted from its foundation in their yard and sent spinning along a fence row.

The metal building crashed into the side of another Circle Hills subdivision house owned by Rick Stevens, and was eventually blown into his garage.

The shed, which was bent "like a pretzel," Mrs. Hoover said, damaged the storm door, siding, and downspouts on the Stevens home.

Swing sets and citizen band radio antennas in the Circle Hills area were upset and mangled by the winds.

The worst damage, according to Pickaway County Sheriff Dwight Radcliff, occurred shortly before 10 p.m. Thursday when winds ripped two-thirds of the roof from a house trailer and scattered it 300 feet away.

Kenneth Rittinger, owner of the 26361 Route 23 trailer, his wife, Bertha, and their 16-year-old son Dwight, suffered minor cuts and abrasions as a result of the storm. They were treated by the Circleville Emergency Medical Team and by personnel at the Berger Hospital Emergency Room.

Nine large trees around the trailer were uprooted by the winds, and electric power in the area was severed by the storm.

Rittinger's roof-less trailer suffered severe wind and water damage, according to Deputy Sheriff Jim Fite.

Joseph Ogan, 225 Ludwig Drive, Jefferson Addition, told Deputy Fite that wind gusts about 9:20 p.m. demolished a 14-foot square building under construction.

Debris from the building was blown about 300 yards from its foundation, he said.

Strong winds also knocked over trees and tree limbs in all areas of the county, according to reports.

One lane of Route 762 between Route 23 and the Scioto River was temporarily closed about 10:10 p.m., according to the Ohio State Highway Patrol, by a large tree limb.

Deputy Jim Fite and Orlando Brown, Route 1, removed a small tree which was blocking Tarlton Road across from the Circleville Manor Nursing Home at 9:50 p.m.

The local weather statistical observatory on Island Road collected only .63 inches of rain during the storm, although much heavier rainfalls were reported from sporadic storms in other areas of the county.

ROUNDTOWN

DUE to the rising cost in supplies and postage, and in order to better serve customers, the Water and Sewage Department of Circleville has announced that it has become necessary to bill customers bi-monthly.

This means that customers will receive a water bill on the first of every other month, and the bill will be based on actual readings only.

Ethiopia Invasion Continues

NAIROBI, Kenya (AP) — Ethiopia's Marxist government was reported under new pressure today from "hostile elements" occupying a town in the western part of the country and 15,000 Somali troops massed on the southeast frontier.

Kenya charged Thursday that 10,000 Somali troops invaded northeast Kenya last weekend near its convergence with Somalia and Ethiopia, and 5,000 more were poised on the border. Foreign Minister Munyua Waiyaki told a meeting of the Organization of African Unity in Gabon that the invaders told the local population they were going to use the area as a base for attacks on Ethiopia.

Somalia's ambassador to Kenya, Hussein Ali Dualeh, denied that any Somali soldiers had crossed into Kenya. He suggested the invaders were Ethiopian soldiers or guerrillas fighting the Ethiopian military government headed by Lt. Col. Mengistu Haile Mariam.

Meanwhile, Western diplomats in Addis Ababa said missionaries along Ethiopia's western border with Sudan reported "people in uniform" occupied the town of Beica two or three days ago. Beica, in Worrege province, is 23 miles from the Sudanese border and 300 miles due west of Addis Ababa, the Ethiopian capital.

The Norwegian foreign ministry said Norwegian missionaries in Beica reported the town had been taken over by Sudanese troops. But the diplomats in Addis Ababa told a telephone caller from Nairobi they had not learned whether they were Sudanese or Ethiopian rebels.

Prince Andrew Starts B.C. Tour

VANCOUVER, Canada (AP) — England's Prince Andrew is on a seven-day tour of British Columbia to coincide with Canada Day celebrations.

He arrived at Vancouver International Airport in nearby Richmond shortly after noon Thursday and was met by several dignitaries, including Lt. Gov. Walter Owen of British Columbia.

Among his activities are a citizenship ceremony at the HMCS Discovery in Burrard Inlet, a tour of the city, and a private party hosted by the lieutenant governor.

HOSPITAL PLANS READY — Berger Hospital board of Governors approved the final building plans Thursday and unanimously decided to advertise for construction bidding. Architect Dan Carmichael, standing to the left, said if bids were accepted Aug. 9 as planned, construction should start Sept. 1. With a normal building progress rate, the 64-patient bed hospital should be finished early in 1979. Board members in the photo are sitting from the left Harry Clifton, Vice President Russell Palm, Howard Koch and Henry Schroeder, member of the building committee. Standing are Carmichael, Administrator Charles Rideout, board members Dr. Carlos Alvarez and Charles Rose. Board members on the building committee not pictured are Robert Huffer and Dr. F. W. Solons To Buy Air Bag Ruling

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress is expected to approve a Transportation Department decision requiring automakers to build air bags or automatic safety belts into new cars, beginning with the 1982 models.

By 1984, all new cars sold in this country would be required to have the devices, which Transportation Secretary Brock Adams says could save 9,000 lives a year.

The key to the program's chances is that Adams is giving the companies plenty of time, phasing in the program over three years.

Congress has 60 days to review the plan. Unless the program is then rejected, it will become law. The secretary told his news conference Thursday he was confident the plan would be sustained.

There appeared to be no general opposition on Capitol Hill. Within an hour of Adams' announcement, however, Rep. Bud Shuster, R-Pa., an outspoken opponent of air bags, introduced a resolution to overturn the decision.

Shuster said there is "no hard evidence that air bags will save lives and it could cost American consumers over $20 billion."

Sen. Robert Griffin, R-Mich., introduced a separate opposing resolution and told the Senate: "Secretary Adams' decision will put Big Brother in the front seat of every American automobile. It's both ironic and appropriate that his target year to finish the job is 1984."

Adams estimated the air bags will cost $100-$300 per car, installed, with the seat belts adding less than $100.

Sen. Donald Riegle, D-Mich., called the decision reasonable and said it provided sufficient time for the automakers to add the equipment.

The automatic seat belts, in use for several years on various models, wrap around passengers and lock into place in the event of a crash. The balloon-shaped air bags, designed to inflate at the moment of a collision, keep passengers from hitting the steering wheel, dash or windshield.

Even the response of the automakers, who have fought vigorously against the passive restraints, seemed comparatively mild.

Only Chrysler responded angrily, charging that Adams' decision "will force the American people to pay triple the cost for a second-best system."

The No. 3 automaker accused Adams of ignoring "his own agency's data, which show that present belt systems will save 50 per cent more lives than air bags." The company urged Congress to overturn the decision.

Consumer advocate Ralph Nader criticized the staggered plan, saying Adams did it to avoid a congressional veto.

"This is the first time the federal government has phased in an auto-safety standard," Nader said. "This is a very bad precedent."

"This says to the public, if you can't afford a large luxury car, you're going to have to wait for safety protection," he added. "While we have one government agency telling us to buy small cars to save fuel, we have another telling us we cannot yet have safety devices in those cars."

Insurance companies hailed the decision. Allstate Insurance said it "will save more lives and prevent more injuries than any other single decision made in the development of the automobile."

Girl Scout Safe; Suspect Arrested On Florida Beach

SARASOTA, Fla. (AP) — Charlotte Grosse, who was dragged screaming from a Girl Scout campground two days ago, was found safe today and a suspect was arrested, sheriff's officials said.

Screaming, "Please don't take me!" the 15-year-old girl was dragged from her tent at the camp on Wednesday.

Today she called the sheriff's office about 10 a.m. to say her abductor had kept his pledge and set her free on Siesta Key, the beach area off Sarasota, Sheriff's Cpl. Ray Pilon said.

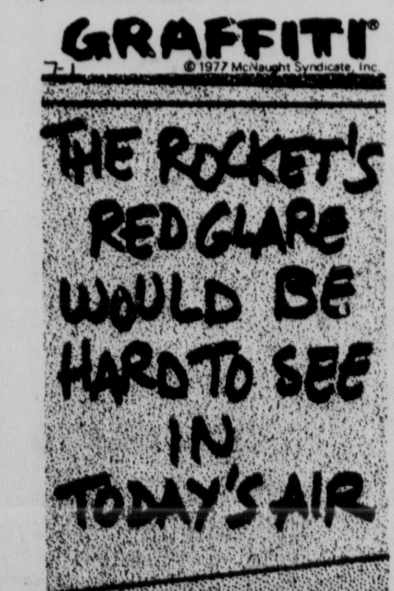

Charlotte had been allowed to make her first call to her parents on Wednesday night to tell them the kidnaper "just wanted to get rid of her," Pilon said.

Officers rushed to pick up Charlotte, and shortly afterward apprehended a suspect in the case in the same beach area, he said.

There were no immediate details of where the girl had been held or the identity of her abductor.

Her parents, Richard and Carol Grosse, had heard from her 17 hours after the abduction and had been told that she would be freed. She promised another call shortly, but that call did not come.

The abduction came two weeks after three Girl Scouts were found sexually

There were no immediate details of where the girl had been held or the identity of her abductor.

Her parents, Richard and Carol Grosse, had heard from her 17 hours after the abduction and had been told that she would be freed. She promised another call shortly, but that call did not come.

The abduction came two weeks after three Girl Scouts were found sexually ROTARY SPEAKER — Jack Wentworth, left, was introduced to local Rotarians Thursday as the guest speaker by Calvin Danford, right. Wentworth is Gas Utilization Representative for Columbia Gas. He told Rotarians that there is ample gas available, but the wellhead tax on natural gas makes it unprofitable to recover. He also stated that there is ample gas in Lake Erie, but that Ohio does not permit any drilling. Dr. Alvarez reminded members to sign up for the golf outing.

Market Report

NEW YORK (AP) — The stock market was mixed today, leveling off after Thursday's modest upturn. The Dow Jones average of 30 industrials showed a very slight fractional loss in early trading. But gainers took a 3-2 lead over losers among New York Stock Exchange-listed issues. Analysts noted some negative response to the jump in the money supply reported late Thursday by the Federal Reserve, which might have been taken as a negative sign for future Fed credit policy. Experts frequently warn against trying to draw many conclusions from the weekly Fed statistics, but some investors nevertheless watch them closely. On Thursday the Dow Jones industrial average posted a 2.97 gain to 916.30. Gainers outnumbered losers by a 7-5 margin on the NYSE. Big Board volume came to 19.41 million shares, against an even 19 million on Wednesday. The NYSE's composite index rose .20 to 55.10. At the American Stock Exchange, the market value index was up .74 at 120.32.

Set Vote On Neutron Warheads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is preparing to vote on a measure that would furnish money to produce neutron warheads, designed to kill people by radiation without damaging buildings or other weapons.

The Senate put the item on its agenda for today as it continued work on the $10.3-billion public works bill containing funds for nuclear research and several controversial water projects.

President Carter is still studying whether to approve the new generation of nuclear weaponry, but an administration official said Carter wants Congress to approve the funds to give him "maximum flexibility" in making his decision.

The neutron-bomb warhead is designed to kill without inflicting widespread destruction. Its supporters say it is sufficiently small, safe and controllable so as not to risk starting a general nuclear war.

It would kill people with massive doses of radiation, just as conventional nuclear weapons operate. Death could take as long as several weeks, although anyone within a half-mile of the explosion would die within a day or two.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said the matter would be taken up in closed session. Other Senate sources said this was being contemplated.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, the Oregon Republican, made a move to eliminate the neutron warhead in a public works subcommittee meeting two weeks ago. The bid was rejected.

Couple United Only On Stage

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — Country singer Buck Owens and his estranged wife, Janae, are back together — on stage, that is.

The former Miss Grief, a fiddler in Owens' band, left him two days after their wedding May 2, when the singer filed for an annulment.

Owens, who blamed "cold feet," placed newspaper ads begging her to forgive him, but she stayed away. He was hospitalized briefly during their honeymoon after being tossed and stepped on by a horse.

They are here through Saturday on a four-day stint at the Southern California Exposition.

Fail To Meet Water Rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 100 cities and 46 industries in Ohio have failed to meet federal clean water standards enforced by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Allen Franks, a spokesman for the Ohio EPA, said today's deadline for clean water arrived too quickly for water standards to be adopted throughout most of the state. Only 24 municipalities passed the test.

Of 115 major industrial facilities in Ohio, 46 were found not in compliance, Franks said.

Clean water standards call for industries and city sewage treatment plants to have "the best practical control equipment" on discharges of pollutants into streams, rivers and lakes.

By 1983, Franks said, "The best available equipment must be installed."

Cities and industries need money to purge water of impurities and control industrial pollutants, Franks added.

Although municipalities are eligible for federal EPA grants, industry must finance its own pollution control equipment.

"Ohio has at least 800 to 900 municipalities which could use the money," Franks said. "We can only fund roughly 250-300 of them."

That was the reason Franks said he went easy on the multitude of big cities—including Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Canton and Akron—who did not meet the federal deadline.

"It's not that they're ignoring the law—they haven't had the money or the time yet," Franks said.

The major industries found lacking in clean water devices were Republic Steel of Cleveland and Canton, Union Carbide in Ashtabula, Armco Steel in New Miami, Wheeling Pittsburgh Steel in Steubenville and White Westinghouse in Mansfield.

Franks said many cities already have received grants to upgrade sewage treatment plants but still did not meet the deadline. Cleveland, for instance, received "well in excess of $100 million from the EPA," Franks said.

Instead of prosecuting violators, Franks said most cities and industries will receive a permit renewal called an Extended Compliance Source Letter issued jointly by the Ohio and national EPA.

"This letter means the party knows it is in violation, is working toward compliance, and had a legitimate reason for not meeting the deadline," Franks said.

He said he does not anticipate many legal suits in the state, unless an extreme and willful violation occurs.

The standards were authorized by the 1972 Clean Water Act, which the federal EPA assumed enforcement of in 1974.

Mrs. List is also survived by three sisters Shirle Longerbone, Margery Brown and Verna Hupp all of Chillicothe.

Funeral services will be 2 p.m. Sunday at the Mader Funeral Home with the Rev. J. A. Mathias officiating. Burial will be at the Springbank Cemetery, Yellowbud.

Friends may call at the funeral home 5-9 p.m. Saturday.

Set Vote On Neutron Warheads

WASHINGTON (AP) — The Senate is preparing to vote on a measure that would furnish money to produce neutron warheads, designed to kill people by radiation without damaging buildings or other weapons.

The Senate put the item on its agenda for today as it continued work on the $10.3-billion public works bill containing funds for nuclear research and several controversial water projects.

President Carter is still studying whether to approve the new generation of nuclear weaponry, but an administration official said Carter wants Congress to approve the funds to give him "maximum flexibility" in making his decision.

The neutron-bomb warhead is designed to kill without inflicting widespread destruction. Its supporters say it is sufficiently small, safe and controllable so as not to risk starting a general nuclear war.

It would kill people with massive doses of radiation, just as conventional nuclear weapons operate. Death could take as long as several weeks, although anyone within a half-mile of the explosion would die within a day or two.

Sen. Warren G. Magnuson, D-Wash., said the matter would be taken up in closed session. Other Senate sources said this was being contemplated.

Sen. Mark O. Hatfield, the Oregon Republican, made a move to eliminate the neutron warhead in a public works subcommittee meeting two weeks ago. The bid was rejected.

Couple United Only On Stage

DEL MAR, Calif. (AP) — Country singer Buck Owens and his estranged wife, Jana Jae, are back together — on stage, that is.

The former Miss Grief, a fiddler in Owens' band, left him two days after their wedding May 2, when the singer filed for an annulment.

Owens, who blamed "cold feet," placed newspaper ads begging her to forgive him, but she stayed away. He was hospitalized briefly during their honeymoon after being tossed and stepped on by a horse.

They are here through Saturday on a four-day stint at the Southern California Exposition.

Fail To Meet Water Rules

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — About 100 cities and 46 industries in Ohio have failed to meet federal clean water standards enforced by the Ohio Environmental Protection Agency.

Allen Franks, a spokesman for the Ohio EPA, said today's deadline for clean water arrived too quickly for water standards to be adopted throughout most of the state. Only 24 municipalities passed the test.

Of 115 major industrial facilities in Ohio, 46 were found not in compliance, Franks said.

Clean water standards call for industries and city sewage treatment plants to have "the best practical control equipment" on discharges of pollutants into streams, rivers and lakes.

By 1983, Franks said, "The best available equipment must be installed."

Cities and industries need money to purge water of impurities and control industrial pollutants, Franks added.

Although municipalities are eligible for federal EPA grants, industry must finance its own pollution control equipment.

"Ohio has at least 800 to 900 municipalities which could use the money," Franks said. "We can only fund roughly 250-300 of them."

That was the reason Franks said he went easy on the multitude of big cities—including Cleveland, Columbus, Cincinnati, Canton and Akron—who did not meet the federal deadline.

"It's not that they're ignoring the law—they haven't had the money or the time yet," Franks said.

The major industries found lacking in clean water devices were Republic Steel of Cleveland and Canton, Union Carbide in Ashtabula, Armco Steel in New Miami, Wheeling Pittsburgh Steel in Steubenville and White Westinghouse in Mansfield.

Franks said many cities already have received grants to upgrade sewage treatment plants but still did not meet the deadline. Cleveland, for instance, received "well in excess of $100 million from the EPA," Franks said.

Instead of prosecuting violators, Franks said most cities and industries will receive a permit renewal called an Extended Compliance Source Letter issued jointly by the Ohio and national EPA.

"This letter means the party knows it is in violation, is working toward compliance, and had a legitimate reason for not meeting the deadline," Franks said.

He said he does not anticipate many legal suits in the state, unless an extreme and willful violation occurs.

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Happiness can be a small drop in grocery prices and that's what happened this month in The Associated Press Ohio Marketbasket survey.

The 2 per cent drop is the first turnaround since September 1976 for the monthly check on retail costs of selected supermarket items. Prices on the 16 checklist items among 16 cities

Voter Suit Arguments Scheduled

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Ohio's Supreme Court called for oral arguments today in a pair of cases that seek to go in different directions with the state's new election day registration law.

Legislative leaders, in one instance, want the high court to force the law into immediate effect. A group that opposes the statute is demanding a chance to put it up for a voter referendum in the November election.

House Speaker Vernal G. Riffe Jr., D-89 New Boston, and Senate Majority Leader Oliver Ocasek, D-27 Akron, filed a mandamus action against Republican Secretary of State Ted W. Brown, who assigns effective dates to bills enacted by the legislature.

Jean Barren of Steubenville, representing the Ohioans for the Preservation of Honest Elections, initiated a similar proceeding against Democratic Atty. Gen. William J. Brown.

The attorney general last week ruled that the group's referendum to place the law on the November ballot was defective because it failed to explain to potential signers that it might not be subject to the referendum process.

Atty. Gen. Brown, a Democrat, said in his opinion, the law was enacted as an appropriations measure—it included $2.3 million to finance the new registration procedures—and therefore cannot be repealed by referendum under the Ohio Constitution.

Secretary of State Brown—a Republican and no relation to the attorney general—assigned an immediately effective date (May 27) to the appropriations part of the measure, but prescribed a 90-day waiting period for the substantive portion.

Elsewhere on the list, a pound of averaged $23.85 at the end of June, compared to $24.33 a month earlier. Average price a year ago was $19.51 and two years ago it was $18.10.

Even so, the direction of costs on some items made a case for backyard gardens and chicken coops.

Coffee averages dropped 5.7 per cent, the first decline since the Brazilian bean crop was hurt by cold weather a year or so ago. Cost of a three-pound can of name-brand coffee ranged from $7.54 at Massillon to $11.99 at Athens.

Shoppers who want to buy in bulk may find some bargains if they have access to Ohio Farm Bureau stores operating under the name of Landmark, Inc. Most sell only in bulk, a six-pound ham, 8-12 pounds of cheese, etc.

Supermarket price competition that blossomed in spots around Ohio the past couple of months is having partial success. The chain that advertises everyday low prices and the one that won't be undersold are losing some, winning some.

Price comparison over a two-week period in one warring supermarket in Columbus showed costs on 16 items escalated a total of $2.04 over a two-week period, with nine items going up, three going down and four remaining unchanged.

In Cleveland, costs on a dozen items in the same chain showed nine were higher than some competing grocers, while two were lower and one was the same.

Eight of the 16 AP shopping list items declined at the end of June from the end of May. Seven others went up and one—peanut butter at 74 cents per 12 ounce jar—remained unchanged.

A 12-ounce pack of frozen orange juice dropped on average by 6.6 per cent, down from 75 to 70 cents. Chuck roast per pound dropped 5.8 per cent, from $1.02 to 96 cents, and five pounds of granulated sugar declined 5.7 per cent, from $1.04 to 98 cents, all on averages among various stores in all cities shopped.

Offsetting that was a 12 per cent jump in a pound of tomatoes, up from 50 to 56 cents over the month, and a 10.7 per cent rise in the per pound cost of whole frying chickens, up from 56 to 62 cents. Average cost on a dozen medium white eggs rose seven per cent, from 56 to 60 cents.

A half-gallon of whole milk increased 3.9 per cent and 10 pounds of white potatoes went up on averages by 3.6 per cent.

hamburger increased 1.2 per cent, center cut pork chops increased 2.3 per cent, and a pound of stick margarine rose .8 per cent.

A 49-ounce box of name-brand detergent declined 1.3 per cent, a 14½ ounce pack of chocolate chip cookies declined one per cent and a head of lettuce declined 1.9 per cent.

Costs declined in eight cities, rose in seven and no comparison was available for the other city surveyed.

Price comparisons among cities, with latest average cost and per cent of change over the month, include:

Athens, $26.08, down 5.9 per cent;

Canton, $20.11, down .9 per cent; Chillicothe, $25.20, no comparison available; Cincinnati, $25.88, down 3.5 per cent; Cleveland, $21.30, down 15 per cent; Columbus, $25.10, up 5.5 per cent; Conneaut, $24.43, up .4 per cent; Findlay, $23.96, up one per cent; Fremont, $24.21, up .04 per cent; Massillon, $19.77, down 6.5 per cent; Portsmouth, $26.50, down 2.5 per cent; Salem, $23.75, up 2.9 per cent; Steubenville, $25.65, up 2.6 per cent; Toledo, $21.34, down 2.5 per cent; Van Wert, $25.95, up 5.8 per cent; Youngstown, $22.33, down one per cent.

Youth Hurt In Crash

A five-year-old youngster suffered minor injuries in an auto wreck 12:48 p.m. Thursday, according to Pickaway County Deputy Sheriff Jim Deal.

Kelly J. Pack, 5, 8870 Kepler-Ford Road, Orient, suffered a large head bump in the accident on the Scioto-Darby Road west of the Matville Road.

Deputy Deal said Danny L. Pack, 17, was driving the car and Robbie A. Pack, 15, was a passenger.

Pack had apparently completed a right turn onto the Scioto-Darby Road from Matville Road when his car skidded on wet pavement.

The vehicle spun in a circle for 94 feet and rolled to its top.

The Scioto Township Fire Department was summoned to the scene to wash gasoline from the roadway.

Checking Car Safety

What is it that hauls the entire family, including baggage and Aunt Myrtle, on its annual vacation jaunt through blistering heat and blinding rain, over trails that are hot and smooth and others that are hot and bumpy, and does it all for hundreds of miles a day at variable speeds?

The family car, of course! Yet this all important part of most vacations frequently is treated like some kind of uninvited company instead of the essential part of the trip it

The human back is, to my way of thinking, the most poorly organized part of human anatomy. Anyone can say a kind word for the heart, which will pump for 70, 80 or even 90 years without stopping. Or the brain which consists of three pounds of multi-million circuits and a storage memory.

The liver is a huge chemical factory which will be abused with the wrong solids and liquids for decades before it malfunctions. Even the plumbing system has a certain gravitational grandeur.

But the back - bah. What is it? A faceless, formless conglomerate of strap muscles held together by a necklace of beads called a spine, in which countless nerves emerge like an upside-down tree.

It's not exciting to look at. Women often bare them in the evening, but I never saw a man snort at shoulder blades. Piano movers have strong backs. So do wrestlers and football players. A lady could win a prize for a beautiful front, but you couldn't win bus fare for a gorgeous back.

I have a strong back. It comes from early years of working on an ice wagon and a milk truck. I was underpaid and overfed. In the nude I looked like a two-legged mule. Never, never did a date say "Hey, Jim, may I rub your back?"

In the autumn of 1963, President Kennedy and I talked of backs. He too was anti. He got steroid shots to ease the pain. He had a ruptured disc and wore a leather harness at all times.

He thought the back was God's way of getting even. He had two discs fused. Kennedy wouldn't use the word pain. He called it discomfort, something he picked up from his surgeon.

When my back "goes out," which is about every four or five years, it does a handsome job of leaving the premises. If I ever become sufficiently well known to sponsor a disease, like those rich comics, I'm going to be known as the back man. Our slogan will be: "We're Behind Everybody."

The lower-left portion of my back went out yesterday. I swung a two iron in some rough. I could feel it as plainly as though I caught five fingers in the door of a bank vault. There were a series of small lightning bolts, followed by big ones which ran down the back of the leg.

There is nothing vague or diffuse about such a pain. It's there. It's alive. It's loud. Walking off the golf course I looked like a bobby pin with hair.

There are millions of you out there who are fellow sufferers, I know. My bed has more wood in it than Amy Carter's tree hut. I have less fun in mine than she does in hers. My wife, who also has a pain, gave me two of each of the pills she had.

They do nothing for pain, but they sure unscrew the head. For a couple of

A car is not something which automatically maintains itself in perfect condition just waiting for the flick of the key and the roar of the engine to go anyplace at any time. The more attention it receives before a major trip, the greater the assurance that it will get the family to its destination with a minimum amount of frustration and a maximum of safety.

NEW YORK (AP) — It's been a tedious battle — in the courts, Congress, the regulatory agencies, the public mind — to modernize rail shipping. But it is getting done, slowly.

Today we have Conrail (a consolidation of bankrupt Northeast and Midwest lines) and unit trains (one origin, one destination, one shipper) and through trains (one engine hauls the cars despite traveling on various rail systems).

And less well known, we have a new regulation that permits some packages to be shipped long distances by rail without various parties handling it, sometimes at the expense of the consignee and consignor.

This is the story, which incidentally takes a somewhat unusual turn.

Businesses with shipments of less than a full carload have only one source of rail transportation, now that the railroads themselves are out of the business. They can have a freight forwarder handle the small shipments at its terminals and combines them into full carloads, which the railroads then accept for shipment.

However, the freight forwarder in recent years had been running into an increasing amount of troubles because of certain limitations set by the Interstate Commerce Commission, which has the unenviable job of trying to maintain order where chaos tends to advance like a jungle.

The chief limitation was to restrict the forwarder in the radius within which he could pick up and deliver, because it was felt that the trucking industry had claims to that area. The radius might be only five miles.

Beyond that area, the freight for-warder often had to contact a trucker to pick up the shipment and deliver it to his terminal. At the other end, he might also have to pay a trucker to deliver the shipment.

These restrictions were set up in the mid-1940s, and in those days, you might recall, business was more geographically concentrated. Since then, industry has crept out along major highways, and sometimes leaped far into the suburbs.

The new rules take into consideration the demographic and economic diffusion that has taken place in the past 30 years. In effect the so-called "terminal areas" have been expanded about 50 per cent on average, in a formula tied to population.

Lawrence Berman, vice president of Transway International Corp., the nation's biggest freight forwarder, cited the significant expansion of terminal area authority in the San Francisco Bay area as an example.

"Since the population of San Francisco is between 500,000 and 1 million," Berman said, "the terminal area is expanded from the five-mile radius established in 1946 to 15 miles."

Now the unexpected twist:

While Transway, among many others, has the authority to pick up in expanded areas around its terminals — more than 200 in every state — it probably won't do so. Instead, it will rely on the trucking industry — it sometimes criticized.

"We hope instead," said G. Russell Moir, chairman, "that since we now have the ability to do it ourselves, if need be, we can prevail on the existing carriers to give us the kind of service we need and at a cost we can afford."

Only those who enjoy emergency stops or hours lost making repairs on the road — or the constant danger that the car may fail at a critical moment — omit vehicle checkups.

And, sure enough, those are the ones to be found broken down along the highway 20 miles outside town.

on any traveler's trip list as important as the cold water jug, the vacation clothes or the camping gear.

Today In History

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

Today is Friday, July 1, the 182nd day of 1977. There are 183 days left in the year.

Today's highlight in history:

On this date in 1867, the Dominion of Canada was created by the British North America Act.

On this date: In 1862, the U.S. Congress established the Bureau of Internal Revenue.

In 1863, the Civil War Battle of Gettysburg began.

In 1881, the American Red Cross was incorporated, with Clara Barton as president.

In 1898, Theodore Roosevelt and his Rough Riders carried out a victorious assault on San Juan Hill in Cuba in the Spanish-American War.

In 1958, construction of the St. Lawrence Seaway was completed.

In 1966, the Medicare health program for elderly Americans went into effect.

Ten years ago: The Communist Party in China proclaimed the overthrow of President Liu Shao-chi.

Five years ago: John Mitchell resigned as President Richard Nixon's campaign manager with the explanation that his wife, Martha Mitchell, had told him to choose either her or politics.

One year ago: In Spain, the unexpected resignation of Prime Minister Carlos Arias Navarro and his Cabinet threw the country's program for democratic change into confusion.

Today's birthdays: Actor James Cagney is 73. Actress Olivia de Havilland is 61. Actor Farley Granger is 52.

Thought for today: "We like a man to come right out and say what he thinks — if we agree with him." — Mark Twain, American humorist, 1835-1910.

Speaking Of Your Health

by Lester L. Coleman, M.D.

Over the years, I have noticed a large collection of tiny blood vessels that extend from my ankle to my heel. I've tried to cover them with all kinds of makeup. They're just plain ugly. Is there any way that these can be treated? I'm 37 and young enough to be vain.

Mrs. D. A. N., Mo.

Dear Mrs. N.:

The condition you describe has a pleasant, melodic name: "telangiectasia." Yet this hardly compensates for the fact that the condition is not pretty. All it means is a dilation of the small capillaries that can occur also on the nose, the face and the thighs.

A great many types of treatment have been tried, with little or no success. Very recently, Dr. Donald B. Adlerman, of Yale University, described a highly successful technique for the eradication of these web-like little blood vessels.

He injects a sterile solution of sodium chloride into the vessels. The blanching effect is immediately visible. Following this, elastic bandages are applied. A number of treatments are necessary. These are done at intervals of one to four weeks, until the desired effect is obtained.

With the method that he has developed, more than 150 patients have been treated, with great satisfaction to them. The procedure is safe and can undoubtedly be duplicated by other physicians who have been trained in the technique.

Twice in the last four years, I have lost my eyelashes, then they grow back. I don't pick at them as some girls do. It's terribly embarrassing. I'm 17. I'd like to know what causes this and how I can prevent it from happening again.

Miss L. V., Tenn.

Dear Miss V.:

The most common cause for this condition is some allergic reaction to cosmetics. Eye shadows, eye liners and mascara can be the offenders.

A number of cases have been attributed to sensitivity to nail polish. At first, it may seem strange that an allergic reaction around the eyes can be traced to such a distant source. But

Swanton Woman Wins $80,000

CLEVELAND (AP) — Mary Jane Hughes of Swanton, who won $80,000 Thursday in the Ohio Lottery's Pot O' Gold game, also earned another chance next week to reach the maximum prize of $250,000.

This was the second time that the 51-year-old bookkeeper at Bettinger Farms in Fulton County has been the top money winner in the weekly drawing. Last week she won $95,000.

"I don't know what to say," she said of her second-round luck, "other than I'm that much more excited."

She said she plans to save some of her winnings and donate some to the Appaloosa Youth Foundation, of which she is national vice president. Mrs. Hughes said that her husband raised appaloosa horses and was national director of the foundation before he died four years ago.

She still owns a few appaloosas and lends them for breeding.

Ohio Lottery spokesmen said other winners were Almore Baumann of Huron, $10,300; Leona Loterbaugh of Cleveland, $8,600; Millard Peebles of Cleveland, $8,000; Donald Schreiber of South Euclid, $7,500 and Patricia Bevins of Columbus, $6,900.

The TV bonus winners were Stu Leventhal of Cincinnati, $50,000; Nancy Vidnich of Cleveland, $10,000 and Lucinda Barry of Middletown, $5,000.

The winning numbers Pot O' Gold numbers were 273, 690 and 06953.

In 1850, Ohio canals were carrying 26 times as much freight as railroads, but 10 years later only half as much as railroads. —AP it does occur.

A local infection around the base of the eyelashes may also be the cause. Severe emotional stress, too, can cause temporary loss of eyelashes. Some people are sensitive to the glue that is applied to false eyelashes. By the process of elimination you may be able to track down the cause of your problem.

Dear Editor:

Ashville's 4th of July Celebration consists of plans-promotion and people: the Ashville Community Club supplies the plans and promotion—the people of the community supply the 'motion'. Each year letters are sent to everyone considered to be able and willing, asking them to work in bingo, fishstand or what-ever, at designated hours during the three or four day event. Every year the club is amazed at the response. Maybe someone cannot work the hours specified so they usually contact a member of the Help-Notification Committee and ask to be changed to another time. The committee member happily assigns them to another time. This is proof that people want to become involved in something good for the community.

The 4th Celebration is unique in a way because it is not done by a standard set of rules and regulations as one might expect for such a big event. Actually it develops each year through the efforts of a bunch of huys who call themselves "The Ashville Community Club". Now this is what is unique—there is no roster of membership, there is no compulsory dues involved yet it is incorporated as a non-profit organization, not governed by any other organization of any kind. It is a member of the Ohio Festivals and Events and the International Festival Associations. These organizations provide publicity and information strictly as aids to improving the quality of festivals throughout Ohio and The United States.

Back to those people who provide the 'motion'—we regret that through one reason or another, a family may be missed, or we have failed to up-date an address change. We hope that if this is the case, that you understand it was not intentional and ask that you contact Steve Cook by phone or in person and tell him you want to help—he will assign you a time convenient for you.

A very fine picnic with good food provided by the Community Club will be held at the Ashville Park for all the helpers on August 1 at 6:30 p.m. This is one way of showing appreciation for all the helpers. Don't miss this.

THANKS MUCH

A Page Of Opinion

Checking Car Safety

What is it that hauls the entire family, including baggage and Aunt Myrtle, on its annual vacation jaunt through blistering heat and blinding rain, over trails that are hot and smooth and others that are hot and bumpy, and does it all for hundreds of miles a day at variable speeds?

The family car, of course! Yet this all important part of most vacations frequently is treated like some kind of uninvited company instead of the essential part of the trip it is.

A car is not something which automatically maintains itself in perfect condition just waiting for the flick of the key and the roar of the engine to go anyplace at any time. The more attention it receives before a major trip, the greater the assurance that it will get the family to its destination with a minimum amount of frustration and a maximum of safety.

Brakes, lights, steering, tires, exhaust system and engine performance are items on any traveler's trip list as important as the cold water jug, the vacation clothes or the camping gear.

Only those who enjoy emergency stops or hours lost making repairs on the road--or the constant danger that the car may fail at a critical moment--omit vehicle checkups.

And, sure enough, those are the ones to be found broken down along the highway 20 miles outside town.

Getting Back

By JIM BISHOP

The human back is, to my way of thinking, the most poorly organized part of human anatomy. Anyone can say a kind word for the heart, which will pump for 70, 80 or even 90 years without stopping. Or the brain which consists of three pounds of multi-million circuits and a storage memory.

The liver is a huge chemical factory which will be abused with the wrong solids and liquids for decades before it malfunctions. Even the plumbing system has a certain gravitational grandeur.

But the back - bah. What is it? A faceless, formless conglomerate of strap muscles held together by a necklace of beads called a spine, in which countless nerves emerge like an upside-down tree.

It's not exciting to look at. Women often bare them in the evening, but I never saw a man snort at shoulder blades. Piano movers have strong backs. So do wrestlers and football players. A lady could win a prize for a beautiful front, but you couldn't win bus fare for a gorgeous back.

I have a strong back. It comes from early years of working on an ice wagon and a milk truck. I was underpaid and overfed. In the nude I looked like a two-legged mule. Never, never did a date say "Hey, Jim, may I rub your back?"

In the autumn of 1963, President Kennedy and I talked of backs. He too was anti. He got steroid shots to ease the pain. He had a ruptured disc and wore a leather harness at all times.

He thought the back was God's way of getting even. He had two discs fused. Kennedy wouldn't use the word pain. He called it discomfort, something he picked up from his surgeon.

When my back "goes out," which is about every four or five years, it does a handsome job of leaving the premises. If I ever become sufficiently well known to sponsor a disease, like those rich comics, I'm going to be known as the back man. Our slogan will be: "We're Behind Everybody."

The lower-left portion of my back went out yesterday. I swung a two iron in some rough. I could feel it as plainly as though I caught five fingers in the door of a bank vault. There were a series of small lightning bolts, followed by big ones which ran down the back of the leg.

There is nothing vague or diffuse about such a pain. It's there. It's alive. It's loud. Walking off the golf course I looked like a bobby pin with hair.

There are millions of you out there who are fellow sufferers, I know. My bed has more wood in it than Amy Carter's tree hut. I have less fun in mine than she does in hers. My wife, who also has a pain, gave me two of each of the pills she had.

They do nothing for pain, but they sure unscrew the head. For a couple of hours I wasn't sure whether I was Don Juan or Leonardo da Vinci. Of course I consulted my doctor.

Consulting means that two of us get to talk. I showed him where the pain was and he said, "Ah-Ha!" This is hardly elaborate dialogue, but it proved that both of us knew where the action was.

He wrote a prescription and gave me a dissertation on his sinus and back-drip. You can guess which one gave the other $20. "Take a rest," he said. That's great, but from what?

A negligence lawyer once told me that back injuries are the most difficult to disprove. Whether it's whiplash or a wrenched muscle or tendon, it will not show up on X-rays.

No matter where I try for a little shot of sympathy, the listener has a worse back. He never endures a pain -- "it's sheer agony." He has given up on his doctor or all doctors. Worse, his physician has a bad back.

So, when anyone asks why I limp, I say it's an old war wound. Like malaria, it never goes away for long. This gets me by all except the wiseguys who ask "What war?"

As I write this, my wife is yanking chunks of hair from her scalp. Why I do not know. I didn't use the phone for more than a few minutes. I called two golf buddies -- Ben Silberman and Sidney Schulman -- to tell them I had wrenched my back.

They clucked with sympathy and asked what time tomorrow. All I said was make it an hour later, I need the rest...

General Better Off If Class Had Slept

WASHINGTON (AP) — More often than not, commencement addresses are good occasions for a nap. Lt. Gen. Donn A. Starry would have been better off if the graduating class had slept through his.

Instead, part of the audience paid attention, and he became embroiled in a new installment of the old argument over the proper boundaries of political and foreign policy comment by military officers.

Starry's indiscretions were political and diplomatic — or undiplomatic. Officially, his error was that he failed to get Pentagon clearance for the speech he made to graduates of the American High School in Frankfurt, Germany.

It didn't cost him much, just a day's inconvenience to stop by the Pentagon for a half-hour lecture from the boss. He was admonished, then sent on his way to a new job and a promotion to four-star rank.

Set Rabbi Preparation Program

CINCINNATI (AP) — Hebrew Union College has started a graduate program at its Jerusalem branch to prepare Israelis for careers as Reform rabbis in their own country.

A Reform rabbi has never before been ordained in Israel, where congregations currently are served by rabbis who are trained elsewhere in the world.

The World Union for Progressive Judaism, headquartered in Jerusalem, hailed the move by Hebrew Union College and pledged its support in meeting additional academic and administrative costs.

Rabbi Richard G. Hirsch, executive director of the World Union, explained there was need for rabbis in Progressive congregations, in the Israeli Youth Movement in Kibbutzim and in other aspects of Israeli life.

He said that Haifa, Nazareth and Beersheba were among a number of communities in which Progressive congregations are now without the services of a fulltime rabbi.

"Reform Judaism is filling a vital need in the spiritual life of Israel," said Albert Gottschalk, president of the college, which has its main campus here. "In keeping with its traditions and commitments, Hebrew Union College is responding to this need by instituting an educational program which will enable Israelis to serve modern Judaism in their home country."

Admission to the new graduate program will be open only to those Israeli students who have also been accepted as candidates for a master of arts degree in the Department of Jewish Studies at the Hebrew University of Jerusalem.

Steel Mill Plans Aired

ASHTABULA, Ohio (AP) — Responding to prodding from environmentalists, U.S. Steel Corp. has outlined its plans to minimize impact of a huge steel mill proposed for a four-mile stretch along the Lake Erie shore.

As two nights of public hearings wound to a close Thursday night, Stephen Curtis, vice president of engineering for U.S. Steel, promised, "We're going to build in the most modern pollution control facilities that have ever been built in a steel plant."

In hearings at Erie, Pa., and Ashtabula, U.S. Steel explained an ambitious plan to completely relocate Turkey Creek, including its marine life, to the eastern end of the proposed mill site.

Dr. John T. Gormley, a Pittsburgh researcher hired by U.S. Steel, said the proposal would involve moving 2.5 million cubic yards of dirt to relocate the 18-mile creek.

Gormley said the shift would involve "relocation of the environment, not just moving water, including replanting of trees."

Environmental Protection Agency (EPA) officials had rejected U.S. Steel's earlier proposal for filling in the Turkey Creek system and diverting the water.

Both were arranged before he gave the speech that stirred the trouble. He is to take charge at the Army Training and Doctrine Command, which runs the service's schools. The promotion to four stars awaits Senate confirmation.

In the offending speech, Starry told his young audience that within their lifetimes "the Soviets will fight the Chinese, possibly simply continuing their 10-year-old border conflict, but more probably in a major war." He said it is likely the United States would become involved.

He also took out after "the liberals," saying they had tried to bury God, and that they dominate a press "which is not interested in the truth, only in the 5 per cent or so of the news that deviates from the norm ..."

Starry thus made the 5 per cent. His case hardly ranked with that of Maj. Gen. John K. Singlaub, ordered home from South Korea after saying President Carter's planned withdrawal of U.S. ground forces would lead to war there. Singlaub contradicted the policy of his civilian commander. There isn't any policy on the issue Starry raised, although it is reasonable to assume that the United States would prefer not to see, let alone become involved in a major war between Russia and China.

So the issues raised by Starry's scolding are more difficult. "If our generals are slowly silenced to the point that they cannot discuss with young people matters that do not come under announced policy of the commander in chief, then we are in for real trouble," said Sen. Barry Goldwater, R-Ariz.

But the Pentagon has told U.S. military commanders that even before policy is set, it may be contrary to the national interest for top military men to discuss it publicly.

That message went out with a reminder of the requirement that speeches and statements be submitted for advance clearance by the Defense Department's Directorate of Security Review and Freedom of Information.

If Starry had sent his in, a Pentagon official said, it probably would have gone back to him with a letter suggesting that he reconsider the implications of his statements on war between Russia and China, and that he also consider whether he should involve himself in domestic politics with his comments about liberals.

In other words, it doesn't take a censor to make the point to a general. Over the right signature, a suggestion is enough. "There's nothing new about the system, and it has caused controversy before. Fifteen years ago, a Senate investigating committee said it was appropriate for the Pentagon to check and clear public statements in advance."

Despite the controversies over Singlaub and Starry, the Pentagon's civilian managers still are urging military men to speak to the public and to reporters. They want it done with care, and in keeping with policy, and with clearance for the speeches.

That's a tall order, but Secretary of Defense Harold Brown tells military commanders it is part of the job. It will be a difficult part, especially now that they have seen two of their colleagues called on the administration carpet for saying the wrong things. For a while, at least, a good many top military men may decide that silence is the better part of valor.

Liquor Permits

Sold In Excess

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Cleveland and other cities have an excess of liquor permits, a factor in the "deterioration and blight of an area," according to the director of the Department of Liquor Control.

The only effective solution, Director Clifford E. Reich said Thursday, is to prohibit movement of permits already issued to an area above its quota.

Reich presented his views to the Senate's Local Government and Urban Affairs Committee. He argued that legislation which would deny the transfer of permits shown to be detrimental does not solve the problem.

He urged that "detriment" not be required, since city councils would then face "a long drawn-out hearing and appeal process."

NOTICE OF PUBLIC HEARING ON TAX BUDGET

Two copies of the Tax Budget as tentatively adopted by the Board of Education of Circleville City School District in Pickaway County, Ohio, are on file in the office of the superintendent of said school district. These are for public inspection; and a Public Hearing on said Budget will be held at the regular meeting of the board of education in said Circleville, on Thursday, the 14th day of July, 1977, at 7:30 o'clock P.M.

Miss Zwayer-Mr. Nyswaner United In June Ceremony

MR. AND MRS. GEORGE E. NYSWANER

Miss Joyce Kay Zwayer daughter of Mrs. Robert Rich of Ashville and Mr. L. Kent Zwayer of Circleville became the bride of Mr. George E. Nyswaner son of Mrs. Wanda Garvin of Columbus and Mr. George Nyswaner of Gahanna.

The Rev. Eugene Leiter performed the double ring ceremony in front of the altar of the First English Lutheran Church of Ashville at 7:30 p.m., June 11.

The altar was decorated with vases of white gladiolus and was flanked with seven branch candelabra decorated with sprengrer.

Organist was Judy Wilson, and Dixie Cummins was soloist.

The bride approached the altar on the arm of her father. She selected a formal length gown of white silk organza, trimmed in lace. The gown featured a fitted empire bodice with a yoke of english net encrusted with lace motifs. The A-line skirt was encrusted on the front and at the hemline with lace motifs and flowed to a chapel length train. Her waltz length veil of silk illusion was edged in lace and held in place by a bridal bonnet.

Tracy Zwayer served as honor attendant for her sister. Bridesmaids were Marci Smalley, Kim Glick, Roxanne Temple, and Lynn Banks. Junior bridesmaid was Stacy Garrett.

Flower girl was Kelly Goldhardt and Laramie Garrett. Ring bearer was Grant Goldhardt.

Mr. Curtis Scott Jr. performed the duties of best man. Ushers were Mr. Mike Lothamer, Mr. Mike Rohr, Mr. Ron Mills, Mr. Todd Zwayer, and Mr. Jeff Rich.

The reception was held at the church. The three tiered wedding cake was topped with flowers and a silver cross.

Hostesses were Linda Garrett, Myrna Siniff, and Teresa Wardell. The bride is a 1975 graduate of Teays Valley High School and is currently employed at Krogers.

The bridegroom is a 1973 graduate of Northland High School and is presently employed by Great Lakes Diesel Company.

The couple will reside at 4714 Tarryton Court South, Columbus.

California style tacos are the hit of any party, especially when you let the guests make their own. To prepare a taco buffet, begin by browning one pound of ground beef, stirring until crumbly. Drain fat. Add taco seasoning mix and water. Stir. Bring to a boil, reduce heat, simmer 15 to 20 minutes, stirring occasionally. When ready to serve spoon about 3 tablespoons of meat filling into each taco shell. Ask guests to prepare the rest giving them a selection of shredded lettuce, grated cheese, chopped tomatoes, sliced olives, chopped onion, sliced avocado, guacamole dip and sour cream.

presented Sheryl Pontious with a presidents pin and a vase of flowers in appreciation for her work as president. Mrs. Lott was also given a floral arrangement in appreciation for her visit to the installation service dinner.

Nursing Home Closes Doors

LISBON, Ohio (AP) — The Columbiana County Nursing Home officially closed its doors and payroll Thursday, but several staff volunteers remain as the last six patients are placed in homes elsewhere.
Funding for the home which had 57 employees and 100 residents ended when county commissioners met citizen opposition to a one-half per cent piggyback sales tax they asked the general electorate to adopt.
The six elderly men who remain are awaiting placement by the county mental retardation department.

Dear Abby:

By Abigail Van Buren

Old Conquests Mounted And Framed

DEAR ABBY: I was recently wed to a wonderful man in all respects except one. He insists on keeping the pictures of all his previous girlfriends, and he has had quite a few.

He has them all neatly mounted in a large picture album, which he insists on leaving on our coffee table, along with our wedding album.

When we have friends over, to be sure they don't miss it, he starts going through the albums, bragging about all the chicks he's had.

I voluntarily destroyed all the pictures I had of myself and previous acquaintances, and I think he should do the same.

He knows how I feel because I've mentioned it several times. He says I am being childish—that there is nothing wrong with recalling a few memories.

His keeping and showing that album hurts me deeply. How can I get him to stop, Abby. Should I destroy them myself and put an end to it?

HURT
DEAR HURT: No, but tell him that his recalling those memories hurts you deeply and to please put them out of sight. A married man who needs to brag about the "chicks" he's had is an insecure little boy whose "manhood" needs constant reassuring. He also has a touch of cruelty.

DEAR ABBY: A neighbor boy and I are pretty good friends, but he's never asked me for a date. He's 19 and I'm 18. He is quite handsome and by no means shy, but he hasn't dated much. I'm a little bit overweight, but have been told that I have a pretty face and good personality.

Now, here's what I want to ask you. If I were to tell him that I could be taken to the movies, my hands could be held, and I would enjoy sweet talk more than some good-looking girl who hears it every Friday night, would he get the wrong idea?

CINDY
DEAR CINDY: No, he'd probably get the RIGHT idea.

DEAR ABBY: How does one forget someone he loves? I can't seem to get over her. It's not true that time heals. The pain seems to be getting worse as the days and weeks go by.

I have even thought about moving to another city, but no matter where I go I'll see the kind of car she drives, and every time I turn on the radio I'll hear the songs we both liked. I'll still think of her when I see her favorite color, or actor, or television program. She is on my mind constantly, even though there is no hope of reviving the relationship.

I know it would be best to forget her, but as long as there is still love (and there is, as much now as ever), is it possible to forget? Can you kill love? If so, tell me how.

Famous Gospel Group Booked

The Singing Gospelaire, from Circleville, have booked the Couriers from Mechanicsburg, Pa., for a night of inspirational singing 7:30 p.m. July 14 at Logan Elm High School. Another locally known group, The Gregg St. Gospel Hour Quartet, will combine their talents with The Couriers.

The Couriers still boast the same three members from the past 20 years. They pioneered the Northern section of the U.S., while other groups remained predominately South. The Couriers were also among the first to sing regularly in Canada. Over all, they have traveled in all 50 states, over 45 foreign countries, and sang in 4,000 churches. During the past several years, they have personally paid their expenses to sing in mission stations around the globe. Tickets are available by calling 474-7679.

Houser Attends NVATA Confab

Gene Houser, Ashville, vocational agriculture teacher in the Eastland Vocational Center, Groveport, attended the National Vocational Agricultural Teachers Assn. regional leadership conference at Travis City, Mich. June 24-25.

He joined 52 agricultural educators representing the other states in the NVATA region. State officers present represented affiliated associations in Ohio, Indiana, Michigan, Illinois, Missouri and Kentucky. The NVATA is the professional organization for over 10,000 agricultural educators in the 49 affiliated state associations.

The 2-day meeting is conducted annually to develop professional leadership, acquaint state association leaders with responsibilities related to the national organization, discuss mutual problems of states within the region, give direction to the NVATA and become more knowledgeable about the total program of vocational education in agriculture.

The meeting was conducted by Robert McBride, NVATA region vice president, who teaches vocational agriculture at Hardin Northern High School, Dola, Ohio. He was assisted by Richard C. Weber, NVATA president of Larose, Louisiana.

Nursing Home Closes Doors

LISBON, Ohio (AP) — The Columbiana County Nursing Home officially closed its doors and payroll Thursday, but several staff volunteers remain as the last six patients are placed in homes elsewhere.
Funding for the home which had 57 employees and 100 residents ended when county commissioners met citizen opposition to a one-half per cent piggyback sales tax they asked the general electorate to adopt.
The six elderly men who remain are awaiting placement by the county mental retardation department.
Four volunteers will stay on to transfer records and files.

PIECES

DEAR PIECES: You can't "kill" love, but you can let it die quietly from malnutrition. Don't permit yourself to dwell on thoughts of her. The moment they come into your mind, drive them out with another thought about something else. The less you allow "her" to live in your memory, the sooner you'll get over her.

Church Briebs

"God and Country" is the theme for Sunday at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union 436 E. Ohio St. The activities will begin with a walk from the Courthouse beginning at 8:45 a.m. in appreciation for the freedoms that we enjoy. The American flag, the Christian flag and the Bible, great symbols of freedom will precede the walkers. The Sunday School begins at 9:30 a.m. The morning preaching will begin at 10:30 a.m. with the pastor, Rev. H. David Cyrus, bringing the message on the subject "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that belong to God." Rev. Mike Holbrook, the assistant to the pastor will bring the message in the evening service at 7 p.m.

At the Church of the Nazarene Pastor Hill will be speaking this Sunday morning on the subject, "Freedom, A Precious Possession. The theme for the evening message will be, "Faithfulness, Ours and His."

Chaplain Joseph E. Miller, from Carlisle, Pennsylvania, will be preaching Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday morning and evening at Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church, 318 Tarlton Rd. Chaplain Miller is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert P. Miller, Sr. He is leaving July 12 to spend a year on duty in Korea. A recent recipient of the Meritorius Service Medal, the Chaplain will be stationed in the Demilitarized zone. An important part of the Friday evening service will be a program by the boys and girls that have attended Vacation Bible School at Emmett Chapel this week. Evening services for the weekend will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the Sunday morning service will be 10:30 a.m.

The Laurelville Church of God will show a Billy Graham film, "A Time To Run" on July 3 at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner of Trinity Lutheran Church has selected "Blackmailed" as his sermon theme Sunday.

Dr. Frank J. Irvine will preach on "The Positive Elements of Freedom" at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday.

There will be a singing witness mission July 9-10 at Morris Chapel United Methodist Church featuring the Christian Brothers Quartet from Portland, Ind. and the Royallaires Trio from Columbus and Circleville. Services will be 7:30 p.m. July 9, 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. July 10.

The Rev. Don Yocom has selected "Christ the Truth" as his sermon topic for Sunday at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Eugene E. Purdy will preach on "Our Nation, Right or Wrong" Sunday at Calvary United Methodist Church.

The Rev. David F. Frazer has selected "So You're Expecting" as his sermon topic Sunday at Community United Methodist Church. The New Life Singers directed by Esther Fouts will present musical selections.

The Singing Gosselaire will present The Couriers in concert Thursday, July 14, at the Logan Elm High School. The Couriers, one of the top gospel groups to entertain in Central Ohio, have been called The Lettermen of gospel music.

In conjunction, the Gregg Street Gospel Hour Quartet from Washington C. H. will perform.

Advance tickets may be purchased by calling 474-7679, or tickets may be purchased at the door. Children under 12 are free.

Hatcheries Cash Wins Plaudits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $3 million appropriation to improve two Ohio fish hatcheries was credited to two Ohio congressmen.

Reps. Ralph Regula, a Republican from Navarre, and Douglas Applegate, a Democrat from Steubenville, pushed for the funding of the hatcheries operated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, according to Robert Teater, director of the Department of Natural Resources.

The Seneca national hatchery will receive $1.8 million, and Hebron will get $1.13 million.

Cults Replacing Family Gap

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the first religious leaders to spot the power of the cults over American youths, Rabbi Maurice Davis, says the problem is not just in methods the groups use, but in the "needs and vulnerability" of the present young generation.

"Our children are lonely," he says, adding that they've been made that way by the modern lack of shared religious faith within their own families, while the cults have moved in to exploit that void.

Noting that the "opposite of loneliness is sharing," he says that such cohesiveness and shared convictions must take place in the home, or the young will remain left with an emptiness that makes them ready victims of tightly enclosing cults.

It's "what makes our kids so vulnerable," he says.

Rabbi Davis, head of the Jewish Community Center of White Plains, N.Y., was drawn early into the problem, 3½ years ago, when it hit two families in his own congregation. He since has become a widely versed authority on it.

He left in formation of a special transdenominational organization, "Citizens Engaged in Reuniting Families" for exchange of experiences, information and guidance for those seeking to regain contact with youths taken into cults.

Now also chairman of a committee on cults set up by the Central Conference of American Rabbis, he reported to its convention last week that the committee is preparing a handbook of facts about each major cult, their techniques and means for combating them.

He criticized the American Civil Liberties Union for its "automatic defense of the cults" without examining or being aware of "the new dimension of brainwashing" the groups have introduced into America.

He maintains that both from firsthand experience and an overwhelming accumulation of evidence that the intensive, isolated indoctrination techniques used by many cults involves mental coercion that blocks free will.

He urged a special scientific-psychiatric research project to analyze the phenomenon and "to determine how best to protect young Americans from a very real danger without in any way impinging on the First Amendment" rights of free religious choice.

Meanwhile, "deprogrammers" have come under increased legal attacks across the country, often aided by civil liberties lawyers without direct experience with the cults. Courts have taken varying positions about the matter.

However, the "deprogramming," which involves initial forced removal from the cults, followed by a few days of association and conversation with others, usually has resulted in decisions to end months or years of cult living.

The cults themselves strongly dispute any "brainwashing" or coercive procedures, saying their intensive training programs are not unlike those of other highly devout, close-knit religious groups of history.

"You have another chance," whispers the spirit of America.

Our nation was founded by colonists who shook free from the oppression of the Old World and created a new future. Unparalleled growth and development came through the shattering of old traditions and through courageous change and creativity. Today's social and economic problems will yield to the same trust in new possibilities.

A gracious, open future is promised in God's Word. The basis of hope is the revelation of an all-powerful God who guides history and fulfills our individual destiny. The miracle of rebirth and forgiveness is rooted in His divine love.

How better might you celebrate Independence Day than to support the Church and nourish the spirit which whispers:

"You have another chance!"

Church Briefs

"God and Country" is the theme for Sunday at the First Church of Christ in Christian Union 436 E. Ohio St. The activities will begin with a walk from the Courthouse beginning at 8:45 a.m. in appreciation for the freedoms that we enjoy. The American flag the Christian flag and the Bible, great symbols of freedom will precede the walkers. The Sunday School begins at 9:30 a.m. The morning preaching will begin at 10:30 a.m. with the pastor, Rev. H. David Cyrus, bringing the message on the subject "Render unto Caesar the things that are Caesar's and to God the things that belong to God." Rev. Mike Holbrook, the assistant to the pastor will bring the message in the evening service at 7 p.m.

At the Church of the Nazarene Pastor Hill will be speaking this Sunday morning on the subject, "Freedom, A Precious Possession. The theme for the evening message will be, "Faithfulness, Ours and His."

Chaplain Joseph E. Miller, from Carlisle, Pennsylvania, will be preaching Friday and Saturday nights and Sunday morning and evening at Emmett Chapel United Methodist Church, 318 Tarlton Rd. Chaplain Miller is the son of the Rev. and Mrs. Robert P. Miller, Sr. He is leaving July 12 to spend a year on duty in Korea. A recent recipient of the Meritorious Service Medal, the Chaplain will be stationed in the Demilitarized zone. An important part of the Friday evening service will be a program by the boys and girls that have attended Vacation Bible School at Emmett Chapel this week. Evening services for the weekend will begin at 7:30 p.m. and the Sunday morning service will be 10:30 a.m.

The Laurelville Church of God will show a Billy Graham film, "A Time To Run" on July 3 at 7:30 p.m.

The public is invited to attend.

Pastor Carl G. Zehner of Trinity Lutheran Church has selected "Blackmailed" as his sermon theme Sunday.

Dr. Frank J. Irvine will preach on "The Positive Elements of Freedom" at the First Presbyterian Church Sunday.

There will be a singing witness mission July 9-10 at Morris Chapel United Methodist Church featuring the Christian Brothers Quartet from Portland, Ind. and the Royallaires Trio from Columbus and Circleville. Services will be 7:30 p.m. July 9, 10 a.m. and 1:30 p.m. July 10.

The Rev. Don Yocom has selected "Christ the Truth" as his sermon topic for Sunday at Good Shepherd United Methodist Church.

The Rev. Eugene E. Purdy will preach on "Our Nation, Right or Wrong" Sunday at Calvary United Methodist Church.

The Rev. David F. Frazer has selected "So You're Expecting" as his sermon topic Sunday at Community United Methodist Church. The New Life Singers directed by Esther Fouts will present musical selections.

The Singing Gosselaires will present The Couriers in concert Thursday, July 14, at the Logan Elm High School.

The Couriers, one of the top gospel groups to entertain in Central Ohio, have been called The Lettermen of gospel music.

In conjunction, the Gregg Street Gospel Hour Quartet from Washington C. H. will perform.

Advance tickets may be purchased by calling 474-7679, or tickets may be purchased at the door. Children under 12 are free.

Hatcheries Cash Wins Plaudits

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A $3 million appropriation to improve two Ohio fish hatcheries was credited to two Ohio congressmen.

Reps. Ralph Regula, a Republican from Navarre, and Douglas Applegate, a Democrat from Steubenville, pushed for the funding of the hatcheries operated by the U.S. Fish and Wildlife Service, according to Robert Teater, director of the Department of Natural Resources.

The Senecaville national hatchery will receive $1.8 million, and Hebron will get $1.3 million.

Cults Replacing Family Gap

NEW YORK (AP) — One of the first religious leaders to spot the power of the cults over American youths, Rabbi Maurice Davis, says the problem is not just in methods the groups use, but in the "needs and vulnerability" of the present young generation.

"Our children are lonely," he says, adding that they've been made that way by the modern lack of shared religious faith within their own families, while the cults have moved in to exploit that void.

Noting that the "opposite of loneliness is sharing," he says that such cohesiveness and shared convictions must take place in the home, or the young will remain left with an emptiness that makes them ready victims of tightly enclosing cults.

It's "what makes our kids so vulnerable," he says.

Rabbi Davis, head of the Jewish Community Center of White Plains, N.Y., was drawn early into the problem, 3½ years ago, when it hit two families in his own congregation. He since has become a widely versed authority on it.

He left in formation of a special transdenominational organization, "Citizens Engaged in Reuniting Families" for exchange of experiences, information and guidance for those seeking to regain contact with youths taken into cults.

Now also chairman of a committee on cults set up by the Central Conference of American Rabbis, he reported to its convention last week that the committee is preparing a handbook of facts about each major cult, their techniques and means for combating them.

He criticized the American Civil Liberties Union for its "automatic defense of the cults" without examining or being aware of "the new dimension of brainwashing" the groups have introduced into America.

He maintains that both from firsthand experience and an overwhelming accumulation of evidence that the intensive, isolated indoctrination techniques used by many cults involves mental coercion that blocks free will.

He urged a special scientific-psychiatric research project to analyze the phenomenon and "to determine how best to protect young Americans from a very real danger without in any way impinging on the First Amendment" rights of free religious choice.

Meanwhile, "deprogrammers" have come under increased legal attacks across the country, often aided by civil liberties lawyers without direct experience with the cults. Courts have taken varying positions about the matter.

However, the "deprogramming," which involves initial forced removal from the cults, followed by a few days of association and conversation with others, usually has resulted in decisions to end months or years of cult living.

The cults themselves strongly dispute any "brainwashing" or coercive procedures, saying their intensive training programs are not unlike those of other highly devout, close-knit religious groups of history.

Ohioans Unhappy With B1 Decision

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Writer

Officials at several Ohio manufacturing plants are expressing their disappointment over President Carter's decision not to go ahead with production of the B1 bomber.

With their disappointment is a realization that they will lose potential growth and profit from Thursday's decision.

James Daniell, president of RMI Co. of Niles, expressed bitter disappointment, but admitted that "RMI will not drop out of the sky just because the B1 bomber did."

RMI produces titanium, a light and durable metal used in some types of aircraft such as Boeing 747s and the proposed B1.

Robert Wehrenberg, president of Cleveland Pneumatic Co., said his firm had 25 employees working on a B1 project now and that figure would have risen to 150.

Now, Wehrenberg said his Cleveland-based company will shift its emphasis to 747s.

General Electric is also looking for new customers to take up the slack after President Carter's announcement.

GE's Evendale plant had been gearing up for production of the F101 engine which would have served as the power plant for the giant bomber.

At the peak stages of production in 1981, GE officials estimated there would have been about 4,500 persons working on the project, which could have supplied engines for 244 B1s. There are currently 1,100 persons in the research and development phase, which continues.

"We are greatly disappointed by the President's statement recommending that the B1 strategic aircraft production program be terminated," a GE spokesman said following the announcement, which was made in Washington.

"The aircraft engine group has worked diligently for seven years to develop and produce what we believe is the finest power plant ever built for the defense of our country."

The Air Force last year announced contracts for production of the first three B1 bombers including an $80 million contract to GE to build 12 B1 engines and to tool up for further production.

Do-It-Yourself Parade Slated

MIAMI SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — Tom Brady, who took it on himself to sponsor a July 4th parade, won't have to march alone.

Brady came up with the do-it-yourself parade a few weeks ago after officials of this Miami suburb decided they couldn't afford the traditional festivities.

More than 100 of Brady's neighbors have since volunteered to march with him. An American Legion post will send along its color guard.

And a radio station has agreed to play patriotic music for the Brady bunch, who plan to carry transistor radios if a band doesn't volunteer.

Ohioans Unhappy With B1 Decision

By ANDY LIPPMAN
Associated Press Writer

Officials at several Ohio manufacturing plants are expressing their disappointment over President Carter's decision not to go ahead with production of the B1 bomber.

With their disappointment is a realization that they will lose potential growth and profit from Thursday's decision.

James Daniell, president of RMI Co. of Niles, expressed bitter disappointment, but admitted that "RMI will not drop out of the sky just because the B1 bomber did."

RMI produces titanium, a light and durable metal used in some types of aircraft such as Boeing 747s and the proposed B1.

Robert Wehrenberg, president of Cleveland Pneumatic Co., said his firm had 25 employees working on a B1 project now and that figure would have risen to 150.

Now, Wehrenberg said his Cleveland-based company will shift its emphasis to 747s.

General Electric is also looking for new customers to take up the slack after President Carter's announcement.

GE's Evendale plant had been gearing up for production of the F101 engine which would have served as the power plant for the giant bomber.

At the peak stages of production in 1981, GE officials estimated there would have been about 4,500 persons working on the project, which could have supplied engines for 244 B1s.

There are currently 1,100 persons in the research and development phase, which continues.

"We are greatly disappointed by the President's statement recommending that the B1 strategic aircraft production program be terminated," a GE spokesman said following the announcement, which was made in Washington.

"The aircraft engine group has worked diligently for seven years to develop and produce what we believe is the finest power plant ever built for the defense of our country."

The Air Force last year announced contracts for production of the first three B1 bombers including an $80 million contract to GE to build 12 B1 engines and to tool up for further production.

Do-It-Yourself Parade Slated

MIAMI SPRINGS, Fla. (AP) — Tom Brady, who took it on himself to sponsor a July 4th parade, won't have to march alone.

Brady came up with the do-it-yourself parade a few weeks ago after officials of this Miami suburb decided they couldn't afford the traditional festivities.

More than 100 of Brady's neighbors have since volunteered to march with him. An American Legion post will send along its color guard.

And a radio station has agreed to play patriotic music for the Brady bunch, who plan to carry transistor radios if a band doesn't volunteer.

On Books And Activities At The Library

The Pickaway County District Public Library will be closed on Monday, July 4th. Be sure to stop by to pick up your reading material for the long weekend. For a safe and entertaining holiday, we recommend leaving the family chariot in the garage and relaxing in a cool corner with a good book!

We have a selection of new titles on hand to choose from this week. Cynthia Freeman's "A World Full Of Strangers" saw a lot of circulation. Those readers who enjoyed the first story about the Rossi family will want to continue the emotion-charged saga with "Fairytale," the newest title in the series.

Louis Auchincloss is becoming a popular writer. "The Dark Lady" chronicles a powerful woman's rise in the business and social world and the human toll it exacts.

"The Dragon" by Alfred Coppel is a daring story of intrigue, suspense, love, ambition, power and ultimately, human beings faced with impossible choices. If you like timely political intrigue novels, this one is for you.

"The finalists" by Russell Braddon should give tennis enthusiasts a match to remember. The Centre Court at Wimbledon is the setting for a match with grave consequences for both the players and an important spectator.

Joan Aiken is no newcomer to the ranks of popular writers. "Last Movement" is an unusual tale of romantic suspense full of surprises, with likable characters and a vivid romantic setting.

Don Robertson is an Ohio author. His novels are most apt to be compassionate and uncompromising. "Miss Margaret Ridpath And The Dismantling Of The Universe" is no exception. It's the story of a timid spinster who lives quietly in Paradise Falls until 3 deranged youths come to town in a rampage.

William Safire was qualified to write "Full Disclosure" through his personal experience on the inside of the White House during a turbulent presidency. The novel presents a picture of political human beings under incredible stress.

Higgins Elected To Assembly Committee

W.W. Higgins, 226 E. Main St. has been elected to the Assembly committee on Theological Seminaries at the 189th General Assembly (1977) of the United Presbyterian Church in the U. S. A. The Assembly, highest policy-making body of the 2.6 million denomination, is in session at the Civic Center here.

Among responsibilities of the 23-member committee are reviewing the annual report of theological seminaries related to the church, and the report of the denomination's Council of Theological Seminaries. Recommendations dealing with theological education in the church also are considered by the committee.

The General Assembly is made up of 663 commissioners (voting delegates), men and women elected by their fellow United Presbyterians in the area governing units known as presbyteries, from throughout the nation. Major decisions regarding the ministry, mission, and governing of the denomination are made by the Assembly.

The annual meeting began June 21 and will continue through June 29.

Higgins was elected to represent the Scioto Presbytery. He is a member of the First Presbyterian Church of Circleville where his wife, Carol, is the choir director.

Lisbond Man Named Mining President

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — Chris Chengalis, president of Industrial Mining Co., Lisbon, was reelected president of the Ohio Mining and Reclamation Association at the associations' annual meeting in Columbus.

OMRA is a trade association organized in 1945 and has 112 coal-producing company members and 75 supplier members.

good western and you could come up with "The Genuine Article" by A. B. Guthrie, Jr. This should appeal to both mystery and western readers.

If you like Pearl Buck and if you enjoy love stories, you're in luck! "The Lovers" is a collection of formerly unpublished stories from the pen of that popular author.

Another collection of stories presents Daphne du Maurier at her best. It's called "Echoes From The Macabre."

Though well-established as a writer in England, "Gildensford" by Valerie Anand is the author's first published work in the United States. Historical fiction, it traces the history of the bloody massacre of Alfred Atheling and 600 of his followers and the events leading to the Norman Conquest.

Richard Condon has written a historical novel about the only Queen of England ever tried for adultery. "The Abandoned Woman" has been given just the right touch of humor by the author.

For real fun this weekend, pick up "High Road To China" by Jon Cleary. Farfetched adventure and pure melodrama is written into a tale told with the author's characteristic sense of pace and humor.

"The Lucifer Wine" by Irma Walker and "The Man From Next Door" by Honor Tracy are two new romantic suspense stories worth mentioning.

Several new Doubleday westerns, mysteries and science fiction titles have also been added this week.

Non-fiction titles offer a variety of subjects. "Feeling Fine" by Dr. Art Ulene presents a program of self-care and self-caring that can lead you to a lifetime of health.

Wesley Marx presents an interesting theory that man, not God, is responsible for natural disasters. "Acts Of God, Acts Of Man" is food for thought.

How can an ordinary man live in today's world and profess a faith that is meant for saints? "The Dove In Harness" by Philip Mason has some interesting ideas on the question.

"The Christian Mother" by Jacky Hertz will strike a responsive chord in the life of every woman striving to raise a family. "Effective Parents, Responsible Children" by Robert Eimers is another parenting guide. "Trials, Tears, And Triumph" is a new autobiography by Dale Evans Rogers.

"The Gift Of Grief" by Ira Tanner explains that grief expanded over the small everyday losses is really an opportunity for expanding awareness in our lives.

Renee Haynes gives us a view of the world of "psi" in "The Seeing Eye, The Seeing I."

Remember, for a happy holiday the library has lots of books to help.

Answers For Veterans

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information on any question presented in this column, or having any questions concerning the benefits of the Veterans Administration should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 S. Court St.

(Q.) What veteran has the most priority for treatment at a VA hospital?

(A.) The service-connected veteran for his service-connected disability, including peacetime veterans.

(Q.) Is domiciliary care only limited to wartime veterans?

(A.) No. Any veteran who has an honorable discharge that qualifies based on his present financial condition can gain admittance.

(Q.) What percentage of disability is required to insure the veteran unlimited outpatient service?

CompuServe Inc. Earnings Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — CompuServe Inc., whose biggest investment this year has been in new personnel, reported increased sales and earnings for the second quarter of the fiscal year ending June 17.

Revenue for the 12-week period increased 45 per cent to $3.5 million compared to $2.4 million in the second quarter of 1976.

Despite higher taxes, the corporation's net income rose 38 per cent to $301,000 compared to $218,000 last year.

Ford And Wife Start Vacation

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Former President Gerald Ford and his wife Betty are vacationing for two months here at the home of Texas oilman Dick Bass.

Ford's personal aide, Maj. Bob Barrett, said the Fords will lunch Saturday with Empress Farah of Iran. Accompanying her will be the Iranian ambassador to the United States, Ardeshir Zahedi.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger also may visit on Saturday, Barrett said.

The Fords arrived here Thursday and plan to stay through Labor Day. For security reasons, they have stayed at Bass' home on their Vail sojourns since Ford became president in 1974. A condominium they own two blocks from the Bass home has been unused for years.

Answers For Veterans

EDITOR'S NOTE: Each week the Circleville Herald will publish a series of questions and answers of interest to veterans. These questions are some of the many presented to James P. Shea, Pickaway County Veterans Service Officer. Any veteran desiring further information on any question presented in this column, or having any questions concerning the benefits of the Veterans Administration should contact the Veterans Service Officer at 219 S. Court St.

(Q.) What veteran has the most priority for treatment at a VA hospital?

(A.) The service-connected veteran for his service-connected disability, including peacetime veterans.

(Q.) Is domiciliary care only limited to wartime veterans?

(A.) No. Any veteran who has an honorable discharge that qualifies based on his present financial condition can gain admittance.

(Q.) What percentage of disability is required to insure the veteran unlimited out patient service?

CompuServe Inc. Earnings Rise

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — CompuServe Inc., whose biggest investment this year has been in new personnel, reported increased sales and earnings for the second quarter of the fiscal year ending June 17.

Revenue for the 12-week period increased 45 per cent to $3.5 million compared to $2.4 million in the second quarter of 1976.

Despite higher taxes, the corporation's net income rose 38 per cent to $301,000 compared to $218,000 last year.

SAVINGS INSURED AT

Ford And Wife Start Vacation

VAIL, Colo. (AP) — Former President Gerald Ford and his wife Betty are vacationing for two months here at the home of Texas oilman Dick Bass.

Ford's personal aide, Maj. Bob Barrett, said the Fords will lunch Saturday with Empress Farah of Iran. Accompanying her will be the Iranian ambassador to the United States, Ardeshir Zahedi.

Former Secretary of State Henry Kissinger also may visit on Saturday, Barrett said.

The Fords arrived here Thursday and plan to stay through Labor Day. For security reasons, they have stayed at Bass' home on their Vail sojourns since Ford became president in 1974. A condominium they own two blocks from the Bass home has been unused for years.

By A BENCHWARMER

After watching the recent televised "confrontation" between Philadelphia Phillies Manager Danny Ozark and a National League Umpire whose name now escapes us, we began thinking after Ozark took an early shower about the thankless job of the official in the world of sports.

In every level of sport from mosquito league baseball to professional football, and in every type of organized sport, there is some type of official present and everyone will agree that they are necessary.

It also goes without saying that no matter what the sport or what level the competition takes place on, the officials always have to take all types of grief, abuse, and ridicule. Even if the contest in question is not for "high stakes" and the two teams or opponents are not the best in the world, there is always someone in the stands who is better qualified than the official, and he makes sure that everyone in the immediate vicinity is aware of that fact.

A licensed official in any sport does not just walk into an office and fill out a license form, then leave the place as an official. There are college level courses set up to train men and women to officiate a wide variety of sports, and one of the most difficult exams that I saw in four years of college was the license examination for Ohio High School football officials.

The next time you sit down to watch a televised baseball game, make a note of the instant replays that are shown when an umpire makes a split second call—you'll be surprised at the very small number of times an ump "misses" a call.

Replace umpires with video tape machines that will "officiate" an athletic contest? No thanks — I'll take the good "old fashioned" human kind any day.

A special congratulations to our local folks who participated in the recent National Wheelchair Games in San Jose California — Dan Fout and Roy Nungester. A big wish of "good luck" to Roy as he prepares to participate in the International Games at Stoke Mandeville, England soon.

We want to be the first to extend a welcome to Teays Valley High School's new head football coach William Wood. We all look forward to seeing him later in the summer.

We can't think of any predictions this week, so we'll just wish everyone a safe and happy Fourth of July weekend. Until next time, have a nice day — be a good sport.

Jackson Baseball Sets Youth Tournament

The Jackson Youth Baseball League (Westfall School District) will be sponsoring a tournament this Saturday and Sunday. The tournament will be played at Jackson School at Fox beginning at noon Saturday.

Piranhas Win 2nd In A Row

The Circleville Piranha Swim Team won their second meet in a row this summer when they traveled to Lancaster last night to defeat the host Lancaster team, 404-314.

"That's two tough wins in a row," said head coach Jim Shea "I wish I could look for a breather next week, but with Columbus Hilltop the meet for next week, I look for nothing but another tough one."

Circleville Swimmers won 13 of 20 relay events and 29 of 52 individual events. Winning three individual events for Circleville were: Ann Titus, Cindy Sparks, Corine Slack, Tim McCrady and Mike McCrady. With two wins were: Erin Hardin, John Slack, Sue Moorehart, and Jonathan Metzler. Single winners were: Jeff Davies, Brad Ness, Christine Elsea, Bob Shaffer, Jay Baehr and Donna Lintner. "Not more than 16 points separated the two teams for almost Two-Thirds of the meet", said Shea "but during the butterfly events we started pulling away. However, it was the winning of 13 or 20 relay events that more or less iced that meet."

Next Thursday, July 7th, Circleville will host the Columbus Hilltop team in the local pool. Meet time will be at 5:30 p.m.

Hot-Hitting Reds Top Giants

CINCINNATI (AP) — Just as the bottom seemed ready to drop out of the Cincinnati Reds' sagging bullpen, tall Texan Dale Murray has stepped in to fortify it with his blazing fastball.

"Murray's really throwing now. He's really going after the hitters. That's the Dale we used to know," Reds Manager Sparky Anderson said after Murray's third straight encouraging outing Thursday. He preserved an 11-5 victory over San Francisco that was keyed by torrid-hitting Dan Driessen, who drove in four runs.

"Murray's a lifesaver for us if he comes around. I think he's getting over the jitters now," Anderson said.

Murray, who has reduced his earned run average drastically to 3.99, feels ready to take his place alongside Pedro Borbon, the only consistently effective Reds reliever this year.

"I've got my confidence back now. I decided that rather than worry about the hitters, I'll let the hitters worry about me," said Murray, acquired from Montreal last winter with Woodie Fryman for Tony Perez and Will McEnaney.

He said he is confident that he has recaptured the form that enabled him to win 15 games for the Expos in 1975.

"In my last three outings, I've felt that good. I've felt as good as I ever had."

Murray's save came after Fryman, 4-5, limited the Giants to two runs and two hits in six innings before wilting under oppressive humidity.

The Giants cut the Reds lead to 7-5 on Gary Thomasson's three-run home run in the eighth inning. The homer, off rookie Joe Henderson, was the latest battering of the Reds bullpen. Henderson's ERA soared to 14.71, while 40-year-old Joe Hoerner has a 15.00 mark and demoted starter Paul Moskau stands at 12.86.

Giants Manager Joe Altobelli doesn't buy the argument that the Reds have riddled their pitching staff through the massive trades of two weeks ago.

"Everybody's crying about the Reds' pitching, but pitching's something that can change in a hurry. They've got quite a team. They've got a lot of guys over there," said Altobelli.

Driessen had three singles and a walk to raise his batting average to a season-high .309, up 40 points since two weeks ago. He has batted in 12 runs in his last 10 games.

"I'm just swinging the bat real good now," said Driessen. "I got off to a slow start, but now I'm really feeling good up there."

Joe Morgan scored five times to take over second places in the National League with 62 runs scored. George Foster, who began the day with 67 runs batted in, one behind league leader Steve Garvey, drove in two runs with a fourth-inning double.

Schmidt, Phils Blast Pirates, 8-1

By KEN RAPPOPORT
AP Sports Writer

The Philadelphia Phillies' fans really gave it to Mike Schmidt this time — but it was bouquets instead of boos.

Accustomed to jeers at Veterans Stadium earlier this season because of a poor start, Schmidt got a standing ovation for a change Thursday night.

He earned it by tying a National League home run record for June with his 14th homer of the month as the Phillies beat the Pittsburgh Pirates 8-1.

The rare ovation for the third baseman caught him short.

"I was in the runway and didn't even have a hat on," said Schmidt, explaining his delay in responding to the fans' noisy salute.

Schmidt tied the mark set by Ralph Kiner of the Pirates in 1947. The major league record of 15 is shared by Babe Ruth (1930), Bob Johnson (1934) and Roger Maris (1961).

In other National League games, the St. Louis Cardinals defeated the Chicago Cubs 2-1, the Atlanta Braves trimmed the Los Angeles Dodgers 5-4, the New York Mets edged the Montreal Expos 4-3, and the Cincinnati Reds outscored the San Francisco Giants 11-5.

The Phillies helped left-hander Steve Carlton to his 10th victory against four losses with a four-run first inning, keyed by Bake McBride's leadoff triple and a two-run homer by Garry Maddox. Larry Bowa singled home McBride, took third on Schmidt's single and scored on a sacrifice fly. Schmidt tallied on Maddox' seventh homer.

Cardinals 2, Cubs 1
Ken Reitz' grounder scored Tony Scott from third in the ninth inning, lifting St. Louis over Chicago. Scott singled with one out off Chicago's Willie Hernandez and raced to third on a hit by Ted Simmons before Keith Hernandez was intentionally walked, loading the bases.

Paul Reuschel relieved Hernandez against Reitz and the St. Louis infielder hit a grounder to second baseman Manny Trillo on which the Cubs just failed to convert into an inning-ending double play.

Braves 5, Dodgers 4

Darrel Chaney's run-scoring single off Los Angeles relief ace Charlie Hough in the bottom of the ninth boosted Atlanta over the Dodgers.

Gary Matthews had tied the score 4-4 by leading off the ninth with his 10th homer of the season. With one out, Jeff Burroughs walked and went to third on Biff Pocoroba's double, setting up Chaney's winning hit off a Hough knuckleball.

Mets 4, Expos 3

Lee Mazzilli streaked home from third with the winning run on Mike Vail's roller in the ninth inning as New York came from behind and defeated Montreal.

Mazzilli, who entered the game as a pinch runner in the seventh, led off the ninth with a double off Montreal's Steve Rogers, advanced to third on Joel Youngblood's sacrifice and scored as pinch hitter Vail grounded out slowly to third.

Reds 11, Giants 5

Dan Driessen drove in four runs and Joe Morgan scored five times, leading Cincinnati over San Francisco. The hot-hitting Driessen, who has driven in 12 runs in his last 10 games, raised his average to .309 with three singles and a walk.

Mountain Of Mail For Tom Seaver

CINCINNATI (AP) — Superstar pitcher Tom Seaver has received a mountain of mail since changing uniforms two weeks ago.

Seaver said the flood of fan mail "compares to 1969 after we (the Mets) won the World Series, but the tone is totally different."

A sampling:

—"Thank you for being Tom Seaver. And for 10 years of good times."

—"Dear Tom and Nancy: I am having a hard time accepting what happened...Nothing anyone has said will kill the deep feelings of affection, devotion and admiration we have for Tom Seaver."

—"How could a game like baseball make a single girl weep?"

—"We hope you will throw a no-hitter in Grant's Tomb (Shea Stadium)," wrote a New York Mets' fan from Queens.

The trade that put the five-time 20-game winner in a Cincinnati Reds uniform has produced one of the biggest fan reactions in decades.

"I haven't seen anything like it since Johnny Bench had the cancer scare," said Bernie Stowe, equipment manager of the world champions. "Even now he's still getting 30-40 a day."

About 98 per cent of the mail is favorable, according to Seaver.

Some are emotional, many from the East Coast express appreciation for a decade of thrills, and a majority contain sports columns and editorials backing Seaver in the bitter dispute with Mets' boss M. Donald Grant and sports writer Dick Young that led to his departure.

"Some people have sent me Young columns and say he's right," said Seaver, who spends an hour a day quietly reading his way through the growing mound of mail. He has sent 'thank you' notes to many.

"At first it bothered me to read them," said the three-time Cy Young Award winner who wept when he made his last visit to the Mets clubhouse.

"The pain has subsided, but the relief is still there from leaving a very unhappy situation," he said.

"Here's one," smiled Seaver. "It just says: 'Go get 'em.'"

A Lexington, Ky. fan welcomed him to Redland, then sent along a tip for Seaver's batterymate, 10-time All-Star catcher Johnny Bench.

"Tell Johnny Bench that I noticed on a few pitches he's been moving his back foot," the fan wrote.

California Angels 'Dropping Like Flies'

ANAHEIM (AP) — The California Angels are, in the words of General Manager Harry Dalton, "dropping like flies." And things don't figure to get much better in the near future.

The Angels, who were among the most active major league teams in the off-season free-agent bidding war, will be without the trio of celebrated stars they signed following the 1976 campaign when they open a five-game series against the Oakland A's tonight.

It was to be determined today if shortstop Bobby Grich, who signed a five-year, $1.5 million contract last fall, will require surgery on his ailing back.

Should that be the case, and it is expected that Grich will need an operation, he will probably be sidelined for the rest of the season.

Outfielder Joe Rudi, who signed a five-year, $2.1 million contract, is on the Angels' supplemental disabled list because of a broken bone in his hand suffered when he was hit by a Nelson Briles pitch last Sunday.

Don Baylor, the third of the talented trio signed by Angels' owner Gene Autrey, has a pulled hamstring muscle. His availability is on a day-to-day basis.

And that's not all. Pitcher Gary Nolan, acquired from the Cincinnati Reds June 15, is expected to be out at least two more weeks with a pulled muscle in his neck.

Rookie shortstop Rance Mulliniks has a hamstring injury and is on a day-to-day basis.

Meanwhile, infielders Dave Chalk and Mario Guerrero, outfielder Gil Flores and pitcher Gary Ross have minor assorted ailments and probably shouldn't be playing now, but are seeing action because of the team's near-desperate situation.

"You can't help injuries, these things happen," said California trainer Freddie Frederico Thursday. "But this has been like lightning striking. Boom. Boom. Boom."

"It's the worst injury wave I've seen in the 17-year history of the Angels," added Frederico, the American League's senior trainer.

Despite the Angels' ills, the team was only 4½ games behind Minnesota in the American League West entering play tonight.

Cruising Takes On New Meaning For CBers

SAN LEANDRO, Calif. (AP) — That old high school pastime, cruising, has taken on new meaning with the rising popularity of the Citizens Band radio.

"After I got my CB, I met 75 people in a month. I kept a list," said Debbie Vargas, 21, a University of California student. "I was really shocked. And they were all guys — 21 in one week."

CB slang and the radio's anonymity brings out the Romeo in many young men, which is why, said 17-year-old Dan Cerevelli, "all of a sudden you've seen CB antennas popping up — bing, bing, bing."

"You can get your courage more up with a radio," said Debbie's 18-year-old sister, Terri. "You're not looking at somebody — the microphones don't have eyes. You're in your own little shell."

Regular cruisers say much of what goes on is chaperoned by parents who eavesdrop on base station radios or on receivers in their own cars. "About two-thirds of the parents cruise the strip," says Dennis Olmstead, 20. "Mine do."

New Dictionary Bares Obscure Words

BOSTON (AP) — Throw out the thesaurus, it's nugatory. Trash Webster's dictionary for its stuffiness.

Not since former Vice President Spiro Agnew reminded us of the word "nabob" has a storm of fresh words come along like Mrs. Byrne's Dictionary of Unusual, Obscure, and Preposterous Words.

Any poker player knows a glee (trio) of queens beats a pair of aces. But, according to Mrs. Byrne, gleeks are also enticing glances — given, perhaps, with a glee of aces and a pair of kings.

Take your average word — bismar, a noun. It's a shame, a disgraceful person, a steelyard and a 15-spined stickleback fish.

Oh, would my grandmother still hold me dear as a mensch, "a thoroughly admirable and 100 per cent good person," if she knew I were forsaking my Funk and Wagnall's for Mrs. Byrne's collection of hippopotamus-sized words?

For scientists and others, Mrs. Byrne includes a 1,913-letter name for an enzyme with 267 amino acids. The enzyme begins with an M.

Mrs. Byrne is Josefa Heifetz Byrne, who collected the 6,000 words over a 10-year period "working alone and without government support," said her husband and editor, Robert Byrne.

If a defense attorney says his opponent is presenting him with a "mora," he could be facing a division of Spartan soldiers or a pair of hardwood trees from Guiana and Trinidad, rather than a mere legal delay.

While a "pollicitation" sounds like it belongs in Congress, it will usually be found along the campaign trail (a promise), or being uttered in "palilalia," a helpless repetition of a phrase faster and faster. Mrs. Byrne supplies a possible Republican cry from Washington, D.C., of "kakistrocracy" — government of the worst citizens.

And who hasn't reverted to "omphaloskepsis" — commonly known as staring at one's belly button?

Mrs. Byrne's dictionary has almost everything from "aasvogel" to "zzxjoanw" — South African vultures to Maori drums. But don't try looking them up in your Webster's or American Heritage dictionaries.

In an introduction, Mrs. Byrne said all the words in her collection are real, and some date as far back as 1620, when they were in common use. She said all the words are authentic, and no matter how obscure, all have been in some previous dictionaries.

WATERLOO, Md. (AP) — "Mother Goose" has been summoned by state police in Maryland to help crack down on speeders.

"It's sort of a Trojan horse and is our answer to the rubber duck," says Col. Thomas S. Smith, the state police superintendent. "Rubber duck" is Citizens Band jargon for the leader of a truck convoy.

Troopers will use trucks equipped with speed guns and CB radios, Smith says, and will monitor CB conversations and talk to other CBers.

"Equipped with a CB radio, 'Mother Goose' will not only follow suspected speeding trucks but infiltrate their convoys, flushing out traffic violators," he says.

When speeders are identified, Smith says, the troopers will radio backup cruisers to stop the violator.

The "flock" includes mobile homes, campers, convertibles, foreign cars and various-sized trucks, Smith says, as well as a rusty pick-up that troopers used two years ago to nab speeding automobiles.

STOCKTON, Calif. (AP) — Two researchers say they have improved on a system for carrying two conversations on a single Citizens Band channel, making it more convenient and cheaper than previous methods.

"A problem today with CB radios is that the crowding of voices on the 40 channels available makes it hard sometimes to understand the person you are talking with," said J. Fred Cleveland, 27, a former student who worked on the project with Dr. Richard W. Harris, a professor of electrical engineering at the University of the Pacific.

"There are other ways of doing what we are talking about," said Harris, "but the cost for such units approaches $7,000. We figure our system can be sold for less than $100."

The Harris-Cleveland system compresses speech as it is transmitted so that it takes half as many units of spectrum space, allowing two conversations on the same band.

"When it is actually being transmitted the speech is not understandable," Harris said. The transmission is "translated" by small boxes developed by the two that are attached to the CB unit.

The system must be approved by the Federal Communications Commission before it can be offered to CBers, the researchers said.

Fire And Ice In Tennis Clash

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors paces the back line of a tennis court like a restless caged bearcat. He tugs at his shirt sleeve. He slaps a hand against his hip. He digs his toes into the ground in the fashion of a fractious thoroughbred. He counts every string on his racket and, head bowed, bounces the ball four times before every serve.

He looks like a bundle of energy seeking to flee its fetters. Strike a match to him and he would certainly explode.

Bjorn Borg is a stoical Swede. Tornadoes swirl all around him, the ground shakes and the sea gets turbulent but he doesn't bat an eyelash. Blond, bearded, blue-eyed, he is the unflappable Viking.

Batter him, bend him, test every stanchion of his steel and he remains as frigid as a winter day in the Alps.

Fire and ice — that's the lineup of Saturday's final in the All-England Championships at Wimbledon. And make no mistake about it, there will be a lot of thunder.

Connors, 24, approaches a tennis match the way Rocky Graziano always did a prize fight. It is war. Animosity and intensity seethe from every pore. Everybody is an enemy — not just his opponent but the umpire and linesmen and even the crowd.

The scrappy kid from Belleville, Ill., seems to put himself into some hypnotic state. He glowers, he fumes, he grunts on every serve. When fortunes go against him, he can fly into angry tantrums, yelling epithets and making gestures to the spectators.

There is a touch of arrogance about him, the way he moves around the court with his shoulders hunched and his head sinking down to his chest.

Independent, defiant, he has emerged as the Peck's bad boy of the game.

Borg, 21, on the other hand, is tennis' "golden boy," a Davis Cup player at age 15, a world class player before he learned to shave and now recognized as one of the most talented and fiercest competitors the sport has known.

"Bjorn never thinks about the point just played, his adversary or the crowd," an English commentator said. "He is impervious to outside distraction. He puts points away like a squirrel storing nuts for the winter."

Once suspect of having choke-up tendencies, the young Swede has proved his mettle time after time, never more than in his three-hour, five-set victory over New York's Vitas Gerulaitis Thursday in one of the finest center court matches ever played.

"Bjorn frowned once at a linesman — the only emotion I have ever seen from him," Vitas said afterward. "I thought I had him — but I didn't."

Both Connors and Gerulaitis are sluggers. Jimmy attacks every ball as if his fate hinges on it, often leaving the ground with the gusto of his aggressiveness. Bjorn swings the tightest racket in tennis — strung to 80 pounds — and threads sidelines with topspin shots that go like rockets.

Johnson, Yanks Top Jays, 11-5

TORONTO (AP) — "Happiness," says Cliff Johnson, "is going to the plate four times a night."

So it would seem that going to the plate five times, as he did Thursday night, would make Johnson absolutely giddy. Not so.

"I'm not gonna get too high when I'm going good or too low when I'm going bad," Johnson said after slamming three home runs, including a record-tying two in an eight-run eighth-inning as the New York Yankees pounded the Toronto Blue Jays 11-5.

In the only other American League game Thursday night, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 on Wayne Garland's five-hit pitching and Frank Duffy's two solo homers. The game was called after 6½ innings because of rain.

"Three home runs doesn't mean anything if you don't come back the next night and help the club," Johnson said.

Johnson, acquired June 15 from Houston for two minor leaguers and a player to be named later, will get plenty of chances to help the Yankees this weekend when they return home to face three left-handers in four games against Detroit.

His three homers came as a designated hitter, but Johnson has played first base and the outfield and done some catching during his career. And, says Manager Billy Martin, Johnson will be the DH against certain right-handers.

Johnson was hit by a pitch from loser Jerry Garvin in the second inning, hit a solo homer in the fourth, walked in the sixth, homered starting the eighth and capped the eight-run inning with a two-run homer off Jerry Johnson after the Toronto reliever brushed him back with a high inside pitch.

Johnson thus became the 18th player in major league history to hit two home runs in one inning, and the first Yankee to do it since Joe Pepitone in 1962. The last American Leaguer was California's Rick Reichardt in 1966.

The Yanks' big inning also included a solo homer by Lou Piniella and a three-run shot by Thurman Munson, who drove in the game's first run with a sacrifice fly. Meanwhile, Catfish Hunter scattered seven hits and allowed only one run until the Yankees built a comfortable 10-1 lead in the eighth.

At Cleveland, Garland, 5-8, struck out four, walked one and retired the last 11 Baltimore batters. The loser was Ross Grimsley, 7-4

Congress To Probe TV Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has decided to find out if television sports shows are honest.

The House communications subcommittee will hold a hearing, most likely in August in New York, into network relationships with professional sports.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee on communications, announced Thursday the appointment of Phillip R. Hochberg, a Washington attorney, to be special counsel for the investigation into the relationship between the TV networks and professional sports.

The primary interest of this subcommittee will be NBC's involvement with the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, ABC's involvement in the promotion of boxing championships and the CBS handling of the "winner-take-all" tennis matches.

"In general, we will try to determine whether the networks have become so involved with arranging, promoting and scheduling sports events that they, in effect, have come to control those events," Van Deerlin said at a news conference.

"In other words, is the public seeing an independent event covered by electronic journalists or an event staged for and controlled by television?"

Hochberg, an attorney who specializes in communications law, said the inquiry would last approximately four months.

"If within four months, we haven't discovered anything, it (the inquiry) should be abandoned forthwith," said Van Deerlin.

Rudolph Hess Rules Relaxed

BERLIN (AP) — Prison authorities are trying to make life a little more pleasant for Rudolf Hess, the 83-year-old former Hitler deputy who is serving a life sentence.

For the first time, Hess has been allowed to watch color television on a regular basis, informed sources said.

In addition, Hess is now allowed two visits instead of one from his immediate family each month and more leeway in picking the time he may spend in the prison garden, the sources said.

Hess, the only remaining prisoner in West Berlin's Spandau prison, was sentenced at the Nuremberg war crimes trial in 1946.

Charles Dump Clippers; Win 4-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS
Doubles by Joe Cannon, Leon Roberts and Rick Cerone made the difference Thursday night as the Charleston Charlies dumped the Columbus Clippers 4-2 in an International League baseball game.

The doubles came in the three-run third inning. Tom Dixon notched his ninth victory of the season.

In other IL action Thursday, Richmond edged Rochester 6-4 and Pawtucket dumped Syracuse 9-4. The Tidewater at Toledo game was postponed due to rain.

Wimbledon Title Excitement Grows

WIMBLEDON (AP) — Fittingly, the men's singles final in the centenary Wimbledon has come down to Jimmy Connors against Bjorn Borg.

They are considered the two best players in the world.

They are the top seeds, Connors at No. 1 and Borg No. 2.

They are former Wimbledon champions, Connors in 1974 and Borg last year.

And they do not like each other much.

But they offer the finest tennis in the game today, and their title match Saturday on Wimbledon's famed center court should provide an appropriate climax to the 100th anniversary of the sport's most prestigious tournament ... a tournament that this year has been packed with excitement and drama.

The woman's final, between Virginia Wade, trying to become the first Britisher to win the title since 1969, and Betty Stove, the first player from The Netherlands to reach the last round, was to be held today, with Queen Elizabeth II among the spectators.

While the woman's championship match was a battle between two steady, consistent veterans — Miss Wade is 32 and Miss Stove 31 — the men's final was expected to be a classic between two, hard-hitting, flawless youngsters — Connors is 24 and Borg 21.

The controversial Connors, from Belleville, Ill., playing with his fractured right thumb heavily bandaged, needed 2 hours, 40 minutes to beat gritty, 18-year-old phenom John McEnroe of Douglaston, N.Y. 6-3, 6-3, 4-6, 6-4 in Thursday's opening men's semifinal.

Then, the thin, cat-quick, long-

Jobless Claims Show Decline

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — The number of newly unemployed persons filing claims with the Bureau of Employment Services dropped 5.3 per cent last week from the week preceding.

A spokesman said 12,901 jobless Ohioans filed claims during the week ending June 25, compared to 13,627 the week before.

The bureau estimated the number of unemployed in Ohio as 115,870.

Fire And Ice In Tennis Clash

WIMBLEDON, England (AP) — Jimmy Connors paces the back line of a tennis court like a restless caged bearcat. He tugs at his shirt sleeve. He slaps a hand against his hip. He digs his toes into the ground in the fashion of a fractious thoroughbred. He counts every string on his racket and, head bowed, bounces the ball four times before every serve.

He looks like a bundle of energy seeking to flee its fetters. Strike a match to him and he would certainly explode.

Bjorn Borg is a stoical Swede. Tornadoes swirl all around him, the ground shakes and the sea gets turbulent but he doesn't bat an eyelash. Blond, bearded, blue-eyed, he is the unflappable Viking.

Batter him, bend him, test every stanchion of his steel and he remains as frigid as a winter day in the Alps.

Fire and ice — that's the lineup of Saturday's final in the All-England Championships at Wimbledon. And make no mistake about it, there will be a lot of thunder.

Connors, 24, approaches a tennis match the way Rocky Graziano always did a prize fight. It is war. Animosity and intensity seethe from every pore. Everybody is an enemy — not just his opponent but the umpire and linesmen and even the crowd.

The scrappy kid from Belleville, Ill., seems to put himself into some hypnotic state. He glowers, he fumes, he grunts on every serve. When fortunes go against him, he can fly into angry tantrums, yelling epithets and making gestures to the spectators.

There is a touch of arrogance about him, the way he moves around the court with his shoulders hunched and his head sinking down to his chest.

Independent, defiant, he has emerged as the Peck's bad boy of the game.

Borg, 21, on the other hand, is tennis' "golden boy," a Davis Cup player at age 15, a world class player before he learned to shave and now recognized as one of the most talented and fiercest competitors the sport has known.

"Bjorn never thinks about the point just played, his adversary or the crowd," an English commentator said. "He is impervious to outside distraction. He puts points away like a squirrel storing nuts for the winter."

Once suspect of having choke-up tendencies, the young Swede has proved his mettle time after time, never more than in his three-hour, five-set victory over New York's Vitas Gerulaitis Thursday in one of the finest center court matches ever played.

"Bjorn frowned once at a linesman — the only emotion I have ever seen from him," Vitas said afterward. "I thought I had him — but I didn't."

Both Connors and Gerulaitis are sluggers. Jimmy attacks every ball as if his fate hinges on it, often leaving the ground with the gusto of his aggressiveness. Bjorn swings the tightest racket in tennis — strung to 80 pounds — and threads sidelines with topspin shots that go like rockets.

Johnson, Yanks Top Jays, 11-5

TORONTO (AP) — "Happiness," says Cliff Johnson, "is going to the plate four times a night."

So it would seem that going to the plate five times, as he did Thursday night, would make Johnson absolutely giddy. Not so.

"I'm not gonna get too high when I'm going good or too low when I'm going bad," Johnson said after slamming three home runs, including a record-tying two in an eight-run eighth-inning as the New York Yankees pounded the Toronto Blue Jays 11-5.

In the only other American League game Thursday night, the Cleveland Indians defeated the Baltimore Orioles 4-2 on Wayne Garland's five-hit pitching and Frank Duffy's two solo homers. The game was called after 6½ innings because of rain.

"Three home runs doesn't mean anything if you don't come back the next night and help the club," Johnson said.

Johnson, acquired June 15 from Houston for two minor leaguers and a player to be named later, will get plenty of chances to help the Yankees this weekend when they return home to face three left-handers in four games against Detroit.

His three homers came as a designated hitter, but Johnson has played first base and the outfield and done some catching during his career. And, says Manager Billy Martin, Johnson will be the DH against certain right-handers.

Johnson was hit by a pitch from loser Jerry Garvin in the second inning, hit a solo homer in the fourth, walked in the sixth, homered starting the eighth and capped the eight-run inning with a two-run homer off Jerry Johnson after the Toronto reliever brushed him back with a high inside pitch.

Johnson thus became the 18th player in major league history to hit two home runs in one inning, and the first Yankee to do it since Joe Pepitone in 1962. The last American Leaguer was California's Rick Reichardt in 1966.

The Yanks' big inning also included a solo homer by Lou Piniella and a three-run shot by Thurman Munson, who drove in the game's first run with a sacrifice fly. Meanwhile, Catfish Hunter scattered seven hits and allowed only one run until the Yankees built a comfortable 10-1 lead in the eighth.

At Cleveland, Garland, 5-8, struck out four, walked one and retired the last 11 Baltimore batters. The loser was Ross Grimsley, 7-4

Congress To Probe TV Sports

WASHINGTON (AP) — Congress has decided to find out if television sports shows are honest.

The House communications subcommittee will hold a hearing, most likely in August in New York, into network relationships with professional sports.

Rep. Lionel Van Deerlin, D-Calif., chairman of the House subcommittee on communications, announced Thursday the appointment of Phillip R. Hochberg, a Washington attorney, to be special counsel for the investigation into the relationship between the TV networks and professional sports.

The primary interest of this subcommittee will be NBC's involvement with the 1980 Olympics in Moscow, ABC's involvement in the promotion of boxing championships and the CBS handling of the "winner-take-all" tennis matches.

"In general, we will try to determine whether the networks have become so involved with arranging, promoting and scheduling sports events that they, in effect, have come to control those events," Van Deerlin said at a news conference.

"In other words, is the public seeing an independent event covered by electronic journalists or an event staged for and controlled by television?"

Hochberg, an attorney who specializes in communications law, said the inquiry would last approximately four months.

"If within four months, we haven't discovered anything, it (the inquiry) should be abandoned forthwith," said Van Deerlin.

Rudolph Hess Rules Relaxed

BERLIN (AP) — Prison authorities are trying to make life a little more pleasant for Rudolf Hess, the 83-year-old former Hitler deputy who is serving a life sentence.

For the first time, Hess has been allowed to watch color television on a regular basis, informed sources said.

In addition, Hess is now allowed two visits instead of one from his immediate family each month and more leeway in picking the time he may spend in the prison garden, the sources said.

Hess, the only remaining prisoner in West Berlin's Spandau prison, was sentenced at the Nuremberg war crimes trial in 1946.

Charles Dump Clippers; Win 4-2

By THE ASSOCIATED PRESS

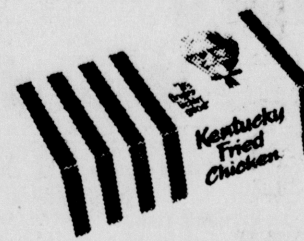

Doubles by Joe Cannon, Leon Roberts and Rick Cerone made the difference Thursday night as the Charleston Charlies dumped the Columbus Clippers 4-2 in an International League baseball game.

The doubles came in the three-run third inning. Tom Dixon notched his ninth victory of the season.

In other IL action Thursday, Richmond edged Rochester 6-4 and Pawtucket dumped Syracuse 9-4. The Tidewater at Toledo game was postponed due to rain.

Your Horoscope

By FRANCIS DRAKE

What kind of day will tomorrow be? To find out what the stars say, read the forecast given for your birth Sign.

FOR SATURDAY
ARIES (Mar. 21 to Apr. 20): A first-rate period for inventiveness and bringing out dormant talents. Put your strength behind unusual projects, but only if they are truly worthwhile.

TAURUS (Apr. 21 to May 21): An original idea could be developed, eventually turned to profit. Along these lines, it's a good period for pushing your luck.

GEMINI (May 22 to June 21): Careful exploration of offerings and soundly directed imagination needed now. Don't mix business and personal affairs.

CANCER (June 22 to July 23): You can take giant steps toward advancement now — if you have the ambition and know-how. Don't launch into uncharted seas, however.

LEO (July 24 to Aug. 23): Others are observing, some following your example. Your best foot forward! Stress vital points, but no exaggerating or cutting corners too close!

VIRGO (Aug. 24 to Sept. 23): Excessive spending could prove disastrous now. Don't speculate or indulge in extravagant whims, and watch the budget even when making minor purchases.

LIBRA (Sept. 24 to Oct. 23): Don't let your curiosity get the better of you — especially in a romantic situation. Too many questions will only yield evasive answers.

SCORPIO (Oct. 24 to Nov. 22): A day of mixed influences. Be careful in your approaches. Others may read more into your words and actions than you intend.

SAGITTARIUS (Nov. 23 to Dec. 21): A long-pending domestic problem can be solved now, so devote the early part of the day to this task. Then you can feel freer to go on to more stimulating interests.

CAPRICORN (Dec. 22 to Jan. 20): Some tension indicated. Avoid highly strung or neurotic persons, and keep out of situations which could needlessly involve you in others' problems.

AQUARIUS (Jan. 21 to Feb. 19): Mixed influences. You may encounter some frustrating situations during the a.m., but the tide will turn in your favor later in the day.

PISCES (Feb. 20 to Mar. 20): Some new trends in the making. Study carefully and be sure to check all propositions before accepting. Romance and travel favored.

YOU BORN TODAY are endowed with many talents through which you could achieve a happy, successful life, but — and this is a BIG but, indeed — you often fail to reach your highest potentials because you have a tendency toward lethargy, lack of ambition and such a feeling of "what's the use?" that you eventually drift into moods of chronic discouragement. All this can be avoided, however, if you will learn to discipline yourself in your early years and concentrate on developing your very best traits and realize that you have a real mission in life. On the better side of your nature, there is beauty, rhythm and a humanitarianism which should not be denied. Properly developed, you could become an outstanding teacher, physician or nurse; could excel in music, designing or dancing. Curb that tendency toward inertia and the world can be yours. Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — She came to TV on Jan. 5, 1976, granddaughter of the "Fernwood Flasher," worrying about "waxy yellow buildup" and then a nearby mass murder of five persons, two goats and eight chickens.

Tonight, no murder occurs in "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," the seriously satirical soap opera starring Louise Lasser as America's most famed, most spacey housewife in pigtails and little-girl togs.

But she'll worry about "waxy yellow buildup" again. And a man — not grandpa — will again do indecent exposure. Both events are of great historical import and consequence.

Tonight marks the 325th and last MH-2 episode, ends the series whose tales of murder, lust, impotence and general weirdness made many who worry about TV dwell at length on what it all means.

The show was taped last June 17, shortly after producer Norman Lear said he was folding the series before its popularity fizzled. If you've not been a nightly "Hartman" viewer but plan to watch the finale, a brief update is in order.

Lear's office says Mary vanished two weeks ago. Husband Tom (Gregg Mullavey) can't find her. Her sometime lover, Police Sgt. Dennis Foley (Bruce Solomon) claims he doesn't know where she is.

So, when the show starts, she's not among the enraged citizens of Fernwood as they hold a town meeting to depose their thieving, lecherous mayor, Merle Jeeter (Dabney Coleman).

His Honor unexpectedly arrives to admit his guilt, admit he hired an ex-con as the police chief and confess to abusing the public trust.

He makes restitution, returns an expensive watch and his Cadillac, and says he's leaving "just the way I come into town. I'm leaving without a shred of dignity." He is wearing a yellow raincoat.

But the townfolk change their mind and keep him on. Which sets the stage for his debut — and presidential candidacy — on "Fernwood Tonight," a 13-week summer series starring Martin Mull.

That show, which starts — no kidding — on July 4 on about 30 stations, also comes from the Lear works. It's a bizarre kind of "Tonight" show that emanates from Fernwood.

In it, Mull plays Barth Gimble, a popular TV personality forced to exit Miami amid rumors of payola and misconduct with young girls.

He's in tonight's finale as an unhappy prospective donor of a kidney for Mary's ailing kid sister. It could well be a publicity stunt.

See, his mod manager arrives at the hospital with a reporter, says "that kidney is going to make him a star," and suggests this headline: "Gimble Has Heart, Donates Kidney."

There ensues a rousing scene with all the regulars except Miss Lasser. She only appears in the closing moment, waxing a kitchen floor. The door opens and ... aw, go see for yourself.

Thus does the actress, who wanted out of the show, leave it. But her colleagues, when "Fernwood Tonight" ends, will return next fall in another syndicated Lear effort, "Fernwood U.S.A."

In that series ... good heavens, my brain just caught fire.

Fire Losses Slightly Down

NEW YORK (AP) — For the first time in five years, losses due to fire in the United States showed a slight decrease, according to the Insurance Information Institute.

The estimated fire loss for 1976 totaled $3.56 million, down less than one per cent from 1975. The figure is still substantially greater than the 1974 fire loss.

The estimate, made by an insurance statistical, advisory and rating organization, is based on individual insurance company reports and allows for additional losses not covered by insurance.

When European explorers and settlers first arrived in the New World, there were a little more than a million Indians living in what is now the United States and Canada.

Carter Ponders China Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today he hopes to work out an agreement with mainland China establishing full diplomatic relations.

At the same time, Carter indicated formal ties with the Nationalists on Taiwan would be cut, but that the United States would maintain trade, cultural and social exchanges.

He told a news conference a final decision may be reached after Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance visits Peking in late August.

The President said the current U.S. security pact with Taiwan poses a "difficult question." But, he said, he hopes full relations can be set with Peking "and still make sure the peaceful lives of the Taiwanese are maintained."

"That is our hope and that is our goal," he added.

U.S. ties with the Nationalists have been a major impediment to an upgrading of relations with the Communist mainland.

Carter said he accepts the concept in the Shanghai communique signed by former President Richard M. Nixon and the late Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in 1972 that there is "one China."

He said he hopes the Taiwanese and the mainland Chinese can resolve their differences early and through peaceful means.

The United States is one of less than two dozen countries that maintains full diplomatic relations with the Republic of China.

However, other countries in cutting formal ties with the Nationalists by recognizing Peking have maintained — and in some cases strengthened considerably — their business dealings with Taiwan.

On another subject, Carter stressed that verification is becoming more of a problem in working out a weapons agreement with the Soviet Union.

He said the United States has never been willing "simply to take the word" of the Russians that they are observing provisions of arms limitation accords.

Carter said he does not agree, however, that there are "growing difficulties" in U.S.-Soviet relations.

He said he would welcome an opportunity to meet with President Leonid I. Brezhnev as a matter of "continuing consultations" but that no time or place is set.

On the Middle East, he said he intends to withhold further comment on the Arab-Israeli dispute until the new Israeli Prime Minister, Menachem Begin, visits here in mid-July.

"I think we have covered the specifics adequately," Carter said.

Amendment Stirs Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A controversial amendment almost forced a Senate floor vote on whether Ohio should study alternatives to busing to achieve racial balance in schools.

Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, offered the amendment which would have limited the proposed legislative study to alternatives, while eliminating scrutiny of other ramifications of desegregation problems in schools, especially those in Ohio's big cities.

Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, sprung to his feet to accuse Van Meter of making a "blatant attempt" to force a vote on an issue that would "only serve to inflame the issue further." To vote for the Van Meter amendment, Meshel said, would delete other language in the study resolution to which majority Democrats were committed.

Senate Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, quickly came to Van Meter's defense, assailing Meshel's implication that Republicans plotted the amendment in caucus to try to embarrass Democrats.

Republicans recently opened their caucuses, while Democrats continue to meet behind closed doors. "I would hope that at least one of you would visit us sometime," Maloney told Democrats.

Sen. Kenneth R. Cox, D-28 Barberton, drafted an amendment at his Senate desk that promptly resolved the issue. It provided that busing alter-

Earlier in the week, the State Department issued a declaration cleared by the White House pointedly insisting that Israel retreat on all fronts as part of an agreement with the Arab states. The statement alarmed many of Israel's supporters.

Carter told reporters at the news conference that "an overwhelming consideration" of his policy is preserving Israel as free and independent.

natives would be included as part of the envisioned study. The resolution then went to the House on a unanimous vote.

Such partisan outbursts are not uncommon in the Senate, but they usually don't get settled so peacefully. One observer said the latest might not have occurred except tempers had been running short anyway due to partisan differences over the state budget bill.

When it comes to vocalizing, Ohio lawmakers take a back seat to no one.

Rep. Waldo Bennett Rose, a particularly energetic Republican orator, was railing away at Democrats for splitting the state budget into three rather confusing bills, when he was interrupted by Finance Committee Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, a Democrat.

"Ben, Shoemaker said, "by separating them, you've got three different speeches you can make."

Rose smiled, but went on undeterred when the roll was called: "I'd like to explain my vote ..."

Hours later, however, when he rose to make the final GOP floor speech on the budget, Rose clicked on a stop-watch, and limited himself to five minutes.

The U.S. Centennial exposition opened in Philadelphia on May 19, 1876.

Views On Television

LOS ANGELES (AP) — She came to TV on Jan. 5, 1976, granddaughter of the "Fernwood Flasher," worrying about "waxy yellow buildup" and then a nearby mass murder of five persons, two goats and eight chickens.
Tonight, no murder occurs in "Mary Hartman, Mary Hartman," the seriously satirical soap opera starring Louise Lasser as America's most famed, most spacey housewife in pigtails and little-girl togs.
But she'll worry about "waxy yellow buildup" again. And a man — not grandpa — will again do indecent exposure. Both events are of great historical import and consequence.
Tonight marks the 325th and last MH-2 episode, ends the series whose tales of murder, lust, impotence and general weirdness made many who worry about TV dwell at length on what it all means.
The show was taped last June 17, shortly after producer Norman Lear said he was folding the series before its popularity fizzled.
If you've not been a nightly "Hartman" viewer but plan to watch the finale, a brief update is in order.
Lear's office says Mary vanished two weeks ago. Husband Tom (Gregg Mulavey) can't find her. Her sometime lover, Police Sgt. Dennis Foley (Bruce Solomon) claims he doesn't know where she is.
So, when the show starts, she's not among the enraged citizens of Fernwood as they hold a town meeting to depose their thieving, lecherous mayor, Merle Jeeter (Dabney Coleman).
His Honor unexpectedly arrives to admit his guilt, admit he hired an ex-con as the police chief and confess to abusing the public trust.
He makes restitution, returns an expensive watch and his Cadillac, and says he's leaving "just the way I come into town. I'm leaving without a shred of dignity." He is wearing a yellow raincoat.
But the townfolk change their mind and keep him on. Which sets the stage for his debut — and presidential candidacy — on "Fernwood Tonight," a 13-week summer series starring Martin Mull.
That show, which starts — no kidding — on July 4 on about 30 stations, also comes from the Lear works. It's a bizarre kind of "Tonight" show that emanates from Fernwood.
In it, Mull plays Barth Gimble, a popular TV personality forced to exit Miami amid rumors of payola and misconduct with young girls.
He's in tonight's finale as an unhappy prospective donor of a kidney for Mary's ailing kid sister. It could well be a publicity stunt.
See, his mod manager arrives at the hospital with a reporter, says "that kidney is going to make him a star," and suggests this headline: "Gimble Has Heart, Donates Kidney."
There ensues a rousing scene with all the regulars except Miss Lasser. She only appears in the closing moment, waxing a kitchen floor. The door opens and ... aw, go see for yourself.
Thus does the actress, who wanted out of the show, leave it. But her colleagues, when "Fernwood Tonight" ends, will return next fall in another syndicated Lear effort, "Fernwood U.S.A."
In that series ... good heavens, my brain just caught fire.

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today he hopes to work out an agreement with mainland China establishing full diplomatic relations.
At the same time, Carter indicated formal ties with the Nationalists on Taiwan would be cut, but that the United States would maintain trade, cultural and social exchanges.
He told a news conference a final decision may be reached after Secretary of State Cyrus R. Vance visits Peking in late August.
The President said the current U.S. security pact with Taiwan poses a "difficult question." But, he said, he hopes full relations can be set with Peking "and still make sure the peaceful lives of the Taiwanese are maintained."
"That is our hope and that is our goal," he added.
U.S. ties with the Nationalists have been a major impediment to an upgrading of relations with the Communist mainland.
Carter said he accepts the concept in the Shanghai communique signed by former President Richard M. Nixon and the late Chinese Premier Chou En-lai in 1972 that there is "one China."
He said he hopes the Taiwanese and the mainland Chinese can resolve their differences early and through peaceful means.
The United States is one of less than two dozen countries that maintains full diplomatic relations with the Republic of China.
However, other countries in cutting formal ties with the Nationalists by recognizing Peking have maintained — and in some cases strengthened considerably — their business dealings with Taiwan.
On another subject, Carter stressed that verification is becoming more of a problem in working out a weapons agreement with the Soviet Union.
He said the United States has never been willing "simply to take the word" of the Russians that they are observing provisions of arms limitation accords.
Carter said he does not agree, however, that there are "growing difficulties" in U.S.-Soviet relations.

Carter Ponders China Policy

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter said today he hopes to work out an agreement with mainland China establishing full diplomatic relations.

He said the United States has never been willing "simply to take the word" of the Russians that they are observing provisions of arms limitation accords.
Carter said he does not agree, however, that there are "growing difficulties" in U.S.-Soviet relations.

He said he would welcome an opportunity to meet with President Leonid I. Brezhnev as a matter of "continuing consultations" but that no time or place is set.
On the Middle East, he said he intends to withhold further comment on the Arab-Israeli dispute until the new Israeli Prime Minister, Menachem Begin, visits here in mid-July.
"I think we have covered the specifics adequately," Carter said.

Earlier in the week, the State Department issued a declaration cleared by the White House pointing out that Israel's retreat on all fronts as part of an agreement with the Arab states. The statement alarmed many of Israel's supporters.
Carter told reporters at the news conference that "an overwhelming consideration" of his policy is preserving Israel as free and independent.

Amendment Stirs Fuss

COLUMBUS, Ohio (AP) — A controversial amendment almost forced a Senate floor vote on whether Ohio should study alternatives to busing to achieve racial balance in schools.
Sen. Thomas A. Van Meter, R-19 Ashland, offered the amendment which would have limited the proposed legislative study to alternatives, while eliminating scrutiny of other ramifications of desegregation problems in schools, especially those in Ohio's big cities.
Sen. Harry Meshel, D-33 Youngstown, sprung to his feet to accuse Van Meter of making a "blatant attempt" to force a vote on an issue that would "only serve to inflame the issue further." To vote for the Van Meter amendment, Meshel said, would delete other language in the study resolution to which majority Democrats were committed.
Senate Minority Leader Michael J. Maloney, R-7 Cincinnati, quickly came to Van Meter's defense, assailing Meshel's implication that Republicans plotted the amendment in caucus to try to embarrass Democrats.
Republicans recently opened their caucuses, while Democrats continue to meet behind closed doors. "I would hope that at least one of you would visit us sometime," Maloney told Democrats.
Sen. Kenneth R. Cox, D-28 Barberton, drafted an amendment at his Senate desk that promptly resolved the issue. It provided that busing alternatives would be included as part of the envisioned study. The resolution then went to the House on a unanimous vote.

Such partisan outbursts are not uncommon in the Senate, but they usually don't get settled so peacefully. One observer said the latest might not have occurred except tempers had been running short anyway due to partisan differences over the state budget bill.
When it comes to vocalizing, Ohio lawmakers take a back seat to no one.
Rep. Waldo Bennett Rose, a particularly energetic Republican orator, was railing away at Democrats for splitting the state budget into three rather confusing bills, when he was interrupted by Finance Committee Chairman Myrl Shoemaker, a Democrat.
"Ben, Shoemaker said, "by separating them, you've got three different speeches you can make."
Rose smiled, but went on undeterred when the roll was called: "I'd like to explain my vote ..."
Hours later, however, when he rose to make the final GOP floor speech on the budget, Rose clicked on a stopwatch, and limited himself to five minutes.
The U.S. Centennial exposition opened in Philadelphia on May 19, 1876.

Bowen Unhappy With Tax Package

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — Gov. Otis R. Bowen isn't jumping up and down over the property tax control package forged by the legislature this year.

The governor made this clear Thursday during the weekly taping of the Report from the Statehouse television program.

"I wasn't really pleased with the end result," he said.

Disputes over the property tax program, which permits tax levies to be raised by as much as 18 per cent the next four years, prompted the governor to call the legislature into its first special session in more than a decade.

The governor said the legislature's more notable accomplishments included unemployment compensation legislation and the police and firemen pension bill.

includes crafts, small games, kick ball, badminton, volley ball, stories and singing. Registration is not required.

FRIDAY MOVIES AND BINGO

If your children or Family have not attended the weekly Friday movies in the YMCA parking lot, you are missing some good old fashioned summer fun. The children play bingo, starting at 8:15 p.m. and the movies start at approximately 9 p.m. Bring your own folding chairs or blanket.

For tonight, the movies will be "Ghost and Ghouls" and the second feature is "Ben and Me" . . . I almost forgot . . . The YMCA has plenty of 10 cent popcorn.

Ashville Kiwanians At Conference

President Larry Toole of 5050 Nelson Drive, Ashville, and first vice president Bill Welsh, Jefferson Avenue, Ashville, were among more than 15,000 people attending the 62nd convention of Kiwanis International in Dallas, Texas, June 26-29, 1977.

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Ashville, Toole and Welsh attended the annual convention, which included the election of new Kiwanis International officers and trustees, the passing of resolutions upon which the organization's 1977-78 community service programs will be built and the amending of the Kiwanis International constitution. Kiwanis International, a worldwide men's service organization, has nearly 300,000 members in 6,980 clubs located in 56 nations.

Among the noted individuals speaking before the conventioners were Dr. Charles L. Allen, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Houston, Texas, the largest Methodist Church in the world; Art Buchwald, syndicated columnist, author, and playwright; and Kiwanis International President Stanley E. Schneider, Crestline, Ohio.

A series of conferences on contemporary issues headed by experts in various socio-economic fields included Donald A. Byrd, chief of police of Dallas; Senator John G. Tower (Rep., Texas); James N. Sites, senior vice-president for communications of the National Association of Manufacturers in Washington, D.C.; and Charles A. LeMaistre, M.D., chancellor of the University of Texas System.

Other convention activities included various awards luncheons and banquets; work-shops and clinics; youth activities and dance; ladies entertainment; presentation of Kiwanis International Dendy Award to popular entertainment personalities Roy Rogers and Dale Evans; and presentation of the Kiwanis International Robert P. Connelly Medal for heroism "beyond the call of duty."

Founded on January 21, 1915, in Detroit, Michigan, Kiwanis International is dedicated to serving youth, community, and nation, and operates under the motto "We Build."

PICCA Notes

Rent-A-Kid

Rent-A-Kid is a Community Service that is provided to the residents and business of Pickaway County by the Community Action Agency.

This agency receives no funds whatsoever for this service.

We have youths between the ages of 14-18 apply at our office. They are interviewed so we know their interests and abilities. The residents and business who have odd jobs that they want done give our office a call and we send out the youths to do the jobs for them.

The wage is $1.50 per hour as the minimum that you pay, but we suggest that you pay them according to the jobs or how well they handled the jobs.

If you wish more information concerning this program give Betty Havens, Rent-A-Kid coordinator, a call at 474-1303.

Job-Corp

We have applications at the PICCA office for Job Corps.

This is a government sponsored program for young men and women 16 years of age but not yet 22 years of age. This is a program designed for underprivileged, school drop-outs, unemployed, under-employed, and high school graduates.

This program is designed to develop skills and work habits to enable youths to receive good paying jobs.

If you are interested you may apply at the PICCA office at 165 East Main Street, or you may call 474-7452.

Juvenile Offender Program

The number of enrollees on the program has been increased to nine. They are employed at seven local workites.

There is funding in the program for vocational training and we hope that enrollees may be able to benefit from this training.

If you have any questions concerning the Juvenile Offender Program please contact Steve McGuire at the PICCA office between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Or you may call 474-1303.

Alcohol Program

Anyone having an Alcohol related problem, there is Counseling Services and Educational Series that is available at the PICCA office, 165 East Main Street.

If you are interested you may contact Ann Ramey, Alcohol Coordinator, at 477-1550.

Spedy

The SPEDY program (Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth) will probably have some job openings for males between 16 and 21 in the coming weeks.

Youth in this age bracket (especially from the county) are encouraged to fill out job applications which can be picked up at PICCA.

Only a small number of applications from county youth have been received. As a result, job slots at the county schools have been hard to fill. Eligibility is determined by annual family income.

Interested youth can call SPEDY (474-1303) to see if their family income meets the federal requirements.

Indiana Town Raked By Storms

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A six-block residential area in Hobart was raked by a tornado as thunderstorms streaked over Indiana, causing widespread property damage but few injuries Thursday.

Damage was reported from the Ohio River to Lake Michigan, mostly from uprooted trees and damaged utility equipment.

The National Weather Service confirmed two touchdowns of tornadoes, and several sightings of funnel clouds were reported by state and local police.

In Hobart, authorities said four homes were destroyed, eight others damaged, a lumber yard damaged and debris strewn throughout the community of 21,000 persons.

and Steve Lust were among 125 students and teachers, representing high schools in three states, who heard business leaders and educators examine America's free enterprise system.

The seminar, which included speakers like SOHIO's director of public affairs, P.A. Curtiss, and Illinois' former Governor William Stratton, is held annually to help students understand the performance, potential and progress of a free market economy.

Topics discussed by the students and business leaders included profit, productivity, government regulation, consumerism and management and labor.

"This seminar has made the students more aware of society and economic problems and free enterprise," said one participant. Scholarships provided by businessmen from Circleville and the rest of Ohio enabled the students to attend.

The new Amana 2 PLUS 2 1/2 Energy Saving Refrigerator.

Engineered to save money on your electric bills.

Instead of the usual 1 1/4" foam wall insulation, Amana packs 2" of foam wall insulation around the refrigerator section PLUS 2 1/2" around the zero-degree freezer section where it's needed most.

But Amana didn't stop there. There's also the seamless one-piece Insuliner™ PLUS Magna-seal door gaskets PLUS superior door insulation. All help seal out the heat and keep electric bills down.

Save even more energy with the exclusive Amana 3-position Energy Saver Control. It regulates heater strips that minimize condensation around the freezer section during high humidity. If your home is air conditioned or the humidity is low, keep the switch on "LO" for maximum savings. "HI" is for high humidity while "EX. HI" is for extremely hot, steamy conditions.

See the Amana 2 PLUS 2 1/2 Refrigerators today . . . Choose from six models. Four models (14 and 16 cu. ft.) are completely Free-O-Frost. Two (12 and 14 cu. ft.) require occasional defrosting of the freezer section only.

Amana 2 PLUS 2 1/2 Refrigerators are as long on features as they are strong on electricity. Free-O-Frost models have the Amana "refrigerator-within-a-refrigerator" meat keeper that keeps meat fresh longer than ordinary meat pans. Super cold air surrounds the outside without drying the meat. And there's no defrosting ever — totally Free-O-Frost refrigerator and freezer.

Two Free-O-Frost models also feature five half-width cantilever shelves, four of which adjust in height to meet your changing needs.

Ashville Kiwanians At Conference

President Larry Toole of 5050 Nelson Drive, Ashville, and first vice president Bill Welsh, Jefferson Avenue, Ashville, were among more than 15,000 people attending the 62nd convention of Kiwanis International in Dallas, Texas, June 26-29, 1977.

Members of the Kiwanis Club of Ashville, Toole and Welsh attended the annual convention, which included the election of new Kiwanis International officers and trustees, the passing of resolutions upon which the organization's 1977-78 community service programs will be built and the amending of the Kiwanis International constitution. Kiwanis International, a worldwide men's service organization, has nearly 300,000 members in 6,980 clubs located in 56 nations.

Among the noted individuals speaking before the conventioners were Dr. Charles L. Allen, pastor of the First United Methodist Church of Houston, Texas, the largest Methodist Church in the world; Art Buchwald, syndicated columnist, author, and playwright; and Kiwanis International President Stanley E. Schneider, Crestline, Ohio.

A series of conferences on contemporary issues headed by experts in various socio-economic fields included Donald A. Byrd, chief of police of Dallas; Senator John G. Tower (Rep., Texas); James N. Sites, senior vice-president for communications of the National Association of Manufacturers in Washington, D.C.; and Charles A. LeMaistre, M.D., chancellor of the University of Texas System.

Other convention activities included various awards luncheons and banquets; work-shops and clinics; youth activities and dance; ladies entertainment; presentation of Kiwanis International Dendy Award to popular entertainment personalities Roy Rogers and Dale Evans; and presentation of the Kiwanis International Robert P. Connelly Medal for heroism "beyond the call of duty."

Founded on January 21, 1915, in Detroit, Michigan, Kiwanis International is dedicated to serving youth, community, and nation, and operates under the motto "We Build."

PICCA Notes

Rent-A-Kid

Rent-A-Kid is a Community Service that is provided to the residents and business of Pickaway County by the Community Action Agency.

This agency receives no funds whatsoever for this service.

We have youths between the ages of 14-18 apply at our office. They are interviewed so we know their interests and abilities. The residents and business who have odd jobs that they want done give our office a call and we send out the youths to do the jobs for them.

The wage is $1.50 per hour as the minimum that you pay, but we suggest that you pay them according to the jobs or how well they handled the jobs.

If you wish more information concerning this program give Betty Havens, Rent-A-Kid coordinator, a call at 474-1303.

Job-Corp

We have applications at the PICCA office for Job Corps.

This is a government sponsored program for young men and women 16 years of age but not yet 22 years of age. This is a program designed for underprivileged, school drop-outs, unemployed, under-employed, and high school graduates.

This program is designed to develop skills and work habits to enable youths to receive good paying jobs.

If you are interested you may apply at the PICCA office at 165 East Main Street, or you may call 474-7452.

Juvenile Offender Program

The number of enrollees on the program has been increased to nine. They are employed at seven local workites.

There is funding in the program for vocational training and we hope that enrollees may be able to benefit from this training.

If you have any questions concerning the Juvenile Offender Program please contact Steve McGuire at the PICCA office between the hours of 8:00 a.m. and 4:30 p.m. Or you may call 474-1303.

Alcohol Program

Anyone having an Alcohol related problem, there is Counseling Services and Educational Series that is available at the PICCA office, 165 East Main Street.

If you are interested you may contact Ann Ramey, Alcohol Coordinator, at 477-1550.

Spedy

The SPEDY program (Summer Program for Economically Disadvantaged Youth) will probably have some job openings for males between 16 and 21 in the coming weeks.

Youth in this age bracket (especially from the county) are encouraged to fill out job applications which can be picked up at PICCA.

Only a small number of applications from county youth have been received. As a result, job slots at the county schools have been hard to fill. Eligibility is determined by annual family income.

Interested youth can call SPEDY (474-1303) to see if their family income meets the federal requirements.

Bill Set For Signing

WASHINGTON (AP) — President Carter is prepared to sign legislation establishing tough new environmental standards on strip mining operations and a tax on coal to pay for cleaning up past abuses, says the chairman of a House-Senate conference committee.

Rep. Morris K. Udall, D-Ariz., predicted both the House and Senate would go along with the compromise legislation the committee approved on Thursday.

"There were compromises on both sides, but I think it's a good, strong bill," said Udall. "I think we'll be at the White House sometime during the last 10 days of July for a ceremony I've waited a long time for."

The bill agreed to by the conferees is less stringent than the measure approved by the House in April but stricter than the Senate version approved in May.

It would impose national environmental standards on coal strip mining for the first time and would require coal operators to restore the land they mine to its original contours in most instances.

And it would impose a tax of 35 cents a ton on strip-mined coal and 15 cents a ton on deep-mined coal to pay for restoration of past strip mine excavations that now scar the landscape.

An estimated 60 per cent of the nation's coal is now produced through strip mining, where layers of topsoil and rock are "stripped" away to get at the underlying coal.

The new

Amana 2 PLUS 2 1/2

Energy Saving Refrigerator.

Engineered to save money on your electric bills.

Instead of the usual 1 1/4" foam wall insulation, Amana packs 2" of foam wall insulation around the refrigerator section PLUS 2 1/2" around the zero-degree freezer section where it's needed most.

But Amana didn't stop there. There's also the seamless one-piece Insuliner PLUS Magna-seal door gaskets PLUS superior door insulation. All help seal out the heat and keep electric bills down.

Save even more energy with the exclusive Amana 3 position Energy Saver Control. It regulates heater strips that minimize condensation around the freezer section during high humidity. If your home is air conditioned or the humidity is low, keep the switch on "LO" for maximum savings. "HI" is for high humidity while "EX HI" is for extremely hot, steamy conditions.

See the Amana 2 PLUS 2 1/2 Refrigerators today . . . Choose from six models. Four models (14 and 16 cu. ft.) are completely Free-O-Frost. Two (12 and 14 cu. ft.) require occasional defrosting of the freezer section only.

Raked By Storms

INDIANAPOLIS (AP) — A six-block residential area in Hobart was raked by a tornado as thunderstorms streaked over Indiana, causing widespread property damage but few injuries Thursday.

Damage was reported from the Ohio River to Lake Michigan, mostly from uprooted trees and damaged utility equipment.

The National Weather Service confirmed two touchdowns of tornadoes, and several sightings of funnel clouds were reported by state and local police.

In Hobart, authorities said four homes were destroyed, eight others damaged, a lumber yard damaged and debris strewn throughout the community of 21,000 persons.

and Steve Lust were among 125 students and teachers, representing high schools in three states, who heard business leaders and educators examine America's free enterprise system.

The seminar, which included speakers like SOHIO's director of public affairs, P.A. Curtiss, and Illinois' former Governor William Stratton, is held annually to help students understand the performance, potential and progress of a free market economy.

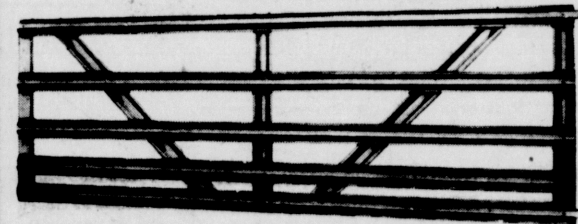

Topics discussed by the students and business leaders included profit, productivity, government regulation, consumerism and management and labor.

"This seminar has made the students more aware of society and economic problems and free enterprise," said one participant. Scholarships provided by businessmen from Circleville and the rest of Ohio enabled the students to attend.
